BEATEN IN FIGHT, WALTON APPEALS TO STATE COURTS

Warrants Charging Assault and Battery Sworn Out Against Burton Smith, John Cox and Reuben Arnold.

ARNOLD AND COX HELPED SMITH, SAYS PLAINTIFF

In Signed Statement Walton Declares Fight Started Over Remarks Made by Smith to Two Women Witnesses.

Warrants charging assault and battery were sworn out yesterday afternoon in Justice C. H. Giradeau's court against Attorney Burton Smith, brother to Senator Hoke Smith; Reuben R. Arnold, a prominent Atlanta lawyer, and John C. Cox, as a result of a free-for-all fight which is said to have been precipitated by Attorney Smith's alleged remarks to two women witnesses in the Crawford will case.

The trouble started when Attorney Smith leaned over to make a remark to one of the women witnesses who was waiting her turn to make deposition in the case before James N. Anderson, on the fourth floor of the Thrower building, where two serious fights have occurred within the past few months.

C. W. Walton, of West Fourteenth street, and W. H. Byrd, of 41 West Twelfth street, were both badly bruised and beaten up as a result of the sledge-hammer blows of Attorney Smith.

Say Two Men Interfered.

The warrants charge that Attorney Arnold and John C. Cox both interfered in the fight and Byrd claims that Attorney Arnold kicked him after Smith.

Before the fight continued any farther deputy sheriffs, policemen and citizens rushed into the melee and separated the struggling mass. Among those who stopped the fight were John H. Owens, chief deputy; Attorney Anderson, who was taking depositions; Deputy Newton Garner and Clerk Dan G. Goodlin, of the solicitor's office.

According to witnesses, the trouble started when Attorney Smith addressed himself to several women in the corridor of the court room. It is said by C. W. Walton and W. H. Byrd, in a signed statement, that Attorney Smith made an insulting remark to Mrs. Viola Whittimore, of Coweta county, and to Mrs. Cora B. Cash.

It was at this point that Walton ordered him to desist from talking to the women.

"What do you care? You don't own her." Attorney Smith is said to have replied.

"They are my women-folk, and I've got a right to say who shall talk to them," Walton declares that he replied.

Smith Strikes Walton.

At this point, witnesses say he raised his hand as though to strike, and as he did so the attorney lunged directly at him and landed his right first squarely on Walton's left cheek bone, inflicting a deep bruise and knocking the man down.

Then the fight became general. Byrd rushed in and Attorney Arnold and Cox joined the fight.

Attorney Smith landed a telling blow on Byrd and he went down. It was at this juncture that Attorney Arnold claims that he interfered. He says that Byrd was hanging on to Attorney Smith while Walton was making an effort to strike him and that he merely kicked Byrd away.

Walton claims that Cox attacked him after Attorney Smith had knocked him down.

Attorney Smith denied in toto the charges that he insulted any woman or women, and claims that Walton merely objected to his talking to the women who were involved in the case. He claims that Walton insulted him, and that this caused him to knock the man down.

Attorney Arnold also adds his word to that of the lawyer. He denies that Attorney Smith made any improper remark to any of the women, and states that he merely entered the general fight when Byrd was trying to hold Smith while Walton was trying again to strike him.

Warrants Sworn Out.

After the difficulty was over, Walton and Byrd swore out the warrants for assault and battery and issued the following statement of their side of the affair:

"Just before the court adjourned in the Thrower building, Judge Roan's court room, Mrs. Viola Whittimore, Mrs. Cora B. Cash and Mrs. M. T. Byrd,

TOBIE IS STUDYING MARY PHAGAN'S LIFE

Burns Operative Finds New Theory in Detailed Study of Life of Girl Who Was Murdered.

Investigation into the life of Mary Phagan from the time she was a child until the day upon which she was murdered has been the work for the past several days of C. W. Tobie, the investigator who is preceding William J. Burns in the attempt to find the perpetrator of the crime.

The detective will not reveal his specific reasons for accumulating a record of the girl's life, but steadily he has been familiarizing himself with every detail which it has been possible to learn. When his chief reaches Atlanta he will have practically every detail in the life of the murdered girl at his finger tips. Tobie states that this is an important part of his criminal investigation.

All of Tuesday morning was spent in interviewing Mrs. James W. Coleman, mother of the dead girl, at her home, 146 Lindsay street. The grief-stricken parent broke into tears before the examination was finished. Tobie learned that on the morning of Mary's disappearance she had arisen early to help her mother with the day's housework.

Ironing Sunday Frock.

Up until the time she caught the trolley car for town, shortly after 11 o'clock, she had been ironing a summer frock which she intended wearing to Sunday school the following Sunday. It still lies carefully spread across the chair upon which she had folded it, a cherished memento of her bright young life.

A pathetic feature of Tobie's investigation of the victim's past was his interview with a girl employee of the Nunnally factory, a local manufacturing concern. A number of these girls were intimate chums of the Phagan girl, and it was from them that the first floral offering came to the undertaking establishment as her body lay in the silent chapel.

"She was the best girl that any of us knew," the factory girl told the detective. "She was a fine little girl, as good as they make them."

Grand Jury Meets Friday.

Solicitor General Dorsey announced Tuesday that the Phagan case was ready for the grand jury, and would be presented next Friday morning. It will require three or four days, it is predicted, for the returning of either a true or no bill, although it is possible the jury will finish with the case in a single day.

In making this announcement, the solicitor said he anticipated no development which would change or alter his present plan. The larger part of the day was spent in preparing signatures to the big batch of stenographic interviews obtained by Mr. Dorsey. He also examined a number of witnesses.

The mysterious telephone girl, of whom mention was first made publicly by The Constitution Tuesday morning, telephoned the office of Solicitor Dorsey early that morning and informed him that it was she whom the detectives were hunting. She offered to tell all she knew.

Letter on Phagan Case.

Evidence that Mary Phagan was seen outside the pencil factory afternoon on Memorial day was submitted to The Constitution Tuesday in the following letter from Mrs. A. A. Smith, a well-known woman living at 198 West Peachtree street:

"On Monday, May 5th, between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon on Whitehall street in front of High's I heard three women in conversation. One was a rather stout woman, apparently 25 years old, and the others were older. I did not note the appearance of the elder women as closely as I did the young one, for the reason that the latter did the most talking.

"These ladies were talking about the Phagan case. The younger one said she did not like the looks of Mr. Frank's picture, but that she believed he ought to be given everybody. She said she knew Mary Phagan well, and that she saw her on Whitehall street, near Trinity avenue, about 4 o'clock on Memorial Day, after the parade had ended. One of the other women said if she knew that, that she ought to tell the authorities.

"I was deeply impressed with the sincerity of this young woman and have deeply regretted that, in the interest of justice, I did not ask her name at the time I overheard her conversation.

"So strongly have I felt upon this subject that I have dared to write this card, begging that the women referred to, in some way, communicate with the editor of this paper. I suggest the editor, because I believe that he will fairly treat the informant and see that the information is fairly used.

"I have no possible interest in the Phagan case except to see justice done.

"Very truly yours.

"MRS. A. A. SMITH."

Presented Education Report to Northern Presbyterians

These are prominent members and secretaries of the board of education, U. S. A. Presbyterian church, who presented their annual report, which was a close study of educational conditions in America, to the Northern assembly. Reading from left to right they are: Dr. H. C. Swearingen, of St. Paul; Edward R. Ster rett, treasurer of the board, of Philadelphia; Dr. Joseph W. Cochran, secretary, of Philadelphia; Dr. R. C. Hughes, secretary for university work, of Philadelphia; S. Spencer Chapman, a well-known lawyer of Philadelphia, who is a member of the board, and Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, also of Philadelphia, who made one of the strong addresses before the Northern assembly.

UNION SEMINARY GOES OVER A YEAR

Sudden End to Warm Dicussion of Charges of Heresy in Institution Comes as a Surprise to Many.

By Charles W. Welch.

"The Lord put one over on the movers of the motion for the previous question at the climax of the oratorical pyrotechnics and fusillade of heretical charges and countercharges this afternoon."

This is a statement made by one of the leaders of the Presbyterian church last night in discussing the late war on the battlefield of Georgia, which came to a close with the adoption of a motion which passed the whole Union Theological seminary matter over to the assembly of 1914.

This statement was made in discussing the attitude of the man who made the motion for the previous question which was explained by a minister who sat next to him and who claimed that instead of meaning the motion which had been made by Dr. Matthews he meant the question which had been the subject of debate during the three hours preceding.

Flag of Truce Borne Forth.

The year of the cannonading had ceased, the rattle of musketry was stilled and indescribable suspense hung over the anxiously waiting throng of commissioners and visitors which had early filled the assembly hall, when the flag of truce was borne forth into the midst of the erstwhile scene of the contending forces. The emblem of cessation of hostilities was held aloft by the peace-loving former moderator, Mark A. Matthews, D.D.

All during the period of the recess which immediately followed the caustic proceedings of the initial hours of the Union Theological Seminary discussion, the observers of the actions of certain of the assembly leaders felt sure that some such move would be taken as soon as possible after the reassembling of the assembly hosts, and were therefore not surprised when Dr. Matthews made his motion to refer the entire matter to the committee for which his motion called and to be reported after a most thorough investigation to the general assembly meeting a year hence.

Calls for Question.

It was at this time that an elder arose and called for the original question "thinking," as he said afterward, "that he was calling for a continuation of the full and exhaustive discussion of the seminary matter" into which the assembly had already thrust itself. The singing of the doxology

CHURCH COUNCIL IS ATTACKED AS POLITICAL BODY

Powerful Union Organization, Representing Thirty Church Beliefs, Charged With Influencing National Politics.

SOUTHERN ASSEMBLY MAY WITHDRAW TODAY

Spirited Fight on Assembly Floor Over Withdrawal From Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Charging that the organization is trying to influence national politics, and that it is adopting a social service regime contrary to the belief of the Presbyterian church, severe attacks were made before the Southern Presbyterian assembly yesterday afternoon against the federal council of the Churches of Christ in America.

This powerful union organization, in which are represented thirty church beliefs and denominations, was the target of strong addresses by Dr. T. M. Lowry, of Memphis, Tenn., who presented the minority report, asking the assembly to withdraw, and by Rev. R. M. Hall, of Galveston, Texas.

Dr. Lowry's report followed the minority report of Dr. Thornton Whaling, president of Columbia seminary, Columbia, S. C., and chairman of the committee on foreign correspondence. Dr. Whaling, while admitting that there were many things about the federal council which the Southern Presbyterian church does not approve, yet argued that the assembly remain in the organization.

Assembly Evenly Divided.

With the lines thus drawn between the two leaders who made the varying reports, the assembly is apparently just about evenly divided. The question will be the first thing in order when the assembly convenes Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, and a lively debate is expected, in which a dozen or more of the commissioners will probably take part before the proposition goes finally to a vote as to whether or not the assembly shall withdraw.

"While I think we ought to remain in the council for the sake of the spirit of Christian unity," said Dr. Whaling in presenting his report, "still I do not approve of the social service program they are adopting. There is a great opportunity in this organization, however, for the expression of unity and fellowship, and I do not believe in building a high wall around us and not taking part in the work of the rest of the churches of America."

Asked Unions Recognition.

Bitterest of the criticisms, however, was that of Dr. Hall, who is not a commissioner to the assembly, but who was invited to speak, because he had been a delegate to the last convention of the federal council in Chicago, at which Dr. Shailer Mathews was elected, causing so much adverse criticism.

Brief Statement Adopted.

The adoption, after long discussion, of the brief statement of belief, submitted last week, was the only event of importance at the afternoon session besides the attack on the Federal council.

By a vote of 119 to 64, the Southern

FIGHT AGAINST HARRIS ENDED BY ARBITRATION

Georgian Will Be Confirmed Director of the Census June 25.

Washington, May 20.—Senators who were looking forward to a discussion of census taking from the days of Babylon to the present, were disappointed tonight when the promised fight over the confirmation of W. J. Harris, of Georgia, as director of the census, succeeding E. Dana Durand, was submitted to arbitration and an agreement was made to vote upon it June 25.

Senator Burton had announced his intention to post his colleagues on census taking as a fine art and had piled the space under his desk with ancient and modern records. Other republicans who opposed confirmation of Harris were primed with figures and facts and they looked forward to an indefinitely prolonged, merry war. The republicans had insisted that Harris be not confirmed before July 1 and offers of a compromise on June 1 had been frowned upon. The agreement fora vote June 25 was voted only after it became apparent that those opposed to confirmation at this time were prepared to take advantage of the senate rules and keep talking as long as the senate remained in session.

No charges have ever been filed against Mr. Harris and since a voting arrangement had been made he probably will be approved, for the democrats have plenty of votes to confirm the nomination.

In the two-hour executive session tonight the senate confirmed the nominations of several score postmasters and other officials, including George W. Guthrie, as ambassador to Japan; John P. Mitchell, as collector of the port of New York; G. M. Saltzgaber, as commissioner of pensions, and Albert Lee Thurman as solicitor of the department of commerce.

Nominations of Wm. H. Berry, as collector of customs at Philadelphia, and that of Franklin P. Colcock, as collector at Beaufort, S. C., to which republican objection has been raised, were passed over.

Boyd Is Nominated.

Washington, May 20.—(Special.)—President Wilson today forwarded to the senate the nomination of William A. Boyd, of Georgia, to be first lieutenant in the United States medecila reserve corps.

RELIGIOUS GARB IN GOVERNMENT SCHOOLS BARRED

United Presbyterians Call Upon President Woodrow Wilson to Change Ruling of President Taft.

CATHOLICS FAVORED, SAY PRESBYTERIANS

Resolution Drawn to Attack Practice of Priests Wearing Their Cossacks in Indian Schools on Reservations.

At the last minute of a long session Tuesday afternoon held by the United Presbyterians, Professor John A. Wilson, professor of church history in Pittsburg Theological seminary, introduced a resolution which was unanimously passed, calling upon the president to forbid teachers in government schools to wear religious garb of any kind whatever.

The resolution in full was as follows:

"Resolved, That the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church petition the president of the United States to direct that no badge or uniform distinctive of any denomination be permitted in any school supported by the funds of the general government."

Amid the greatest applause of the afternoon, the resolution was passed unanimously. This resolution was drawn especially to attack the practice of Catholic priests wearing their garb in government, especially Indian schools. This order allowing such was given by President Taft, it is said, and caused much hard feeling among the ranks of the Protestant denominations at the time, as they accused the Catholics of attempting to gain control of the government schools.

Trustees Named Separately.

Another one of the important resolutions passed was that in the future the trustees of the general assembly will be elected separate from all other boards.

The report of the Freedmen's committee showed that increasing work had been done in the past year. An increase of 12 missionaries over last year was reported, and due increase in all other departments.

The committee on church extension showed a healthy balance on the right side of the ledger, a balance of $6,772.51 being on hand. Dr. M. M. Patterson spoke on behalf of the board, saying:

"A house of worship is a covenant to God from His children. You hive the bees to get the honey; we should build our temples of worship beautiful in order that there may be no discordant notes. Cockiness is not piety. Holiness is holiness."

In reading the report of the board of education, Rev. R. G. Kyle, of Monmouth, Ill., gave some interesting figures in regard to why men entered the United Presbyterian ministry. From a consensus of all the ministers of the church, the following reasons were given: Out of 800 ministers, 354 felt that they had been called by God; 88 were influenced by their mothers to enter the field; 220 felt that from boyhood they had been reared for the calling; 69 were urged by their respective pastors to take the step.

HOPE FOR WALKER IN A NEW KIDNEY, DECLARES DOCTOR OF JOHNS HOPKINS

Attending Physicians, However, Declare the Proposed Operation Would Be Impossible and That Their Patient Will Die Without Any Doubt.

SENSATIONAL REPORTS OF FINAL RECEPTION DENIED BY FAMILY

Vomiting of Portion of Bichloride of Mercury Tablet Believed to Be Reason Why Walker Has Been Able to Fight Death So Long.

Baltimore, May 20.—To transplant the healthy kidney from a man who has just died to the body of B. Sanders Walker, banker of Macon, Ga., probably is the only remedy that would save his life, if the mercury tablet he swallowed has destroyed one of his kidneys, was the statement today of a prominent physician who is a member of the Johns Hopkins hospital staff. He pointed out that Dr. Alexis Carrell, of the Rockefeller Institute of Research, has successfully transplanted kidneys from one dog to another and in a few hours the dogs were walking about and eating as if their organs had not been disturbed.

According to Dr. Carrell, the same could be done to the human system, and he is the authority for the statement that blood vessels and other organs can be successfully transplanted and will continue to grow in the human body.

Another local physician predicted Walker's recovery, although he might be paralyzed for life. This doctor said he had several cases just like the Macon one and in only one of them did the patient die.

Other high medical authorities here, in discussing the case, expressed their belief that Walker could not possibly recover.

WALKER FIGHTS GAMELY AS DEATH APPROACHES

By Francis Clarke, Staff Correspondent.

Macon, Ga., May 20.—(Special.)—Lying in a room in the Sydney Lanier cottage, which he now owns, B. Sanders Walker, the prominent young Macon real estate man, who last week swallowed a bichloride of mercury tablet which he had mistaken for a headache remedy, is still making a brave fight to withstand the advancing tide of death.

The stricken man's ability to stave off death thus far is ascribed to the fact that he vomited a portion of the tablet soon after taking it, and that what remained was shortly afterward removed by the stomach pump before it much had dissolved.

Although he has for four days been aware that his physicians have stood steadfast in their decision that it was merely a matter of time before the end came, he has not for a moment loosened his determined hold upon life.

The attending physicians, when they read the Associated Press dispatch from Baltimore to the effect that transplanting of kidneys might save the life of

B. Sanders Walker, the banker slowly dying from bichloride of mercury poisoning, stated that such a course in the patient's condition would be impossible.

"There is not the slightest doubt that Mr. Walker will die," said Dr. M. M. Stapler, one of the physicians in charge of the case. "The poison has gone all through his system and is not confined to the kidneys. Even if it were only to his kidneys, he would die under an anesthetic. His pulse is 128, nearly double normal, while respiration and temperature are 32 and 98.5, respectively, about normal. This is very unsatisfactory."

Mr. Walker has been confined to his bed the last twenty-four hours and has been half the time in a state of coma. Physicians state that he will either die while in a state of coma or under convulsions, and that the end may come any hour now.

Tonight there are slight indications of improvement in his condition, the vital organs which were paralyzed by the effect of the deadly poison having acted slightly during the day. As a result, members of his family are hopeful, notwithstanding the continued statements of the attending physicians that death will probably ensue within a day or so.

The doctors declare that it is not from the direct effects of the poison from which Mr. Walker will die, but from the resulting paralysis of the kidneys, which will in a day or so result in his death from uremic poisoning. Indeed, they express themselves as amazed that this condition has not already set in, and declare that the length of time for which Walker has lived is unprecedented in their experience.

Reports Anger Family.

Although the members of Mr. Walker's family still hope that a fatal termination of his tragic mistake in the small hours of the morning last Wednesday may be averted, the outlook now is that the battle which Walker has waged against death will be a useless one, and that within a day or two the poisoning will set in, he will fall into a semi-consciousness condition and life will gradually pass away.

Members of Mr. Walker's family are today vehement in their indignant protest against the sensational accounts of the matter, which have been sent broadcast over the country by sources which they do not know, but which they are endeavoring to discover.

"Especially do they denounce the statement that Walken, after having been informed that death would result from his swallowing the tablet, called in his business associates, wound up his business affairs and then, after sending for his friends, held a farewell reception.

In neither of these reports is there an iota of truth. Walker has not been outside the four walls of his bedroom since leaving the telephone when he summoned the assistance of his brother-in-law, Dr. Stapler, immediately following his discovery that he had made a mistake in the tablet he had taken.

While his strength has been sufficient to have enabled him to go his usual routine of daily work, had he desired, the knowledge that he had about one chance in a thousand for recovery, has kept him in the utmost quiet, in the hope that when the eurmic poisoning finally set in he might by some miracle of accumulated strength fight off its effects.

No Outsiders Admitted.

Members of his family are also bitter in the denunciation of the reports that outsiders have been admitted to the household since it has been known that the young head of the family was doomed. Only his parents, his sisters and brothers have been admitted to the room which he is waging the battle for life. Even his brothers-in-law have been excluded and the interviews which have appeared from him being the result of being rehearsed conversation with reporters, are false, pure and simple.

Reports of the treatment which have been given him by the physicians in attendance are also branded as untrue.

These reports have caused hundreds of telegrams to be received by members of the family, declaring that the wrong remedies were being used and suggesting other means of treatment. The truth is that the doctors have absolutely declined to state the treatment used, although it is understood that he has consisted practically entirely, of saline injections, by which it is hoped to bring life to the organs paralyzed from the effects of the deadly poison.

Hon. Clifford Walker, of Monroe, Ga., former solicitor-general of that judicial circuit and the only brother of Sanders Walker, is especially bitter in his condemnation of those who have sent out the untrue reports.

"Not only has the privacy of a home which is shrouded in the deepest sorrow been invaded" declared Mr. Walker tonight, "but it has been done in a manner extraordinarily false.

"None of the sensational reports which I am told have been sent from one end of the country to another contain the slightest vestige of truth. My brother has not left his room since his tragic mistake was discovered, and no one but the members of his immediate family have seen him.

"While his condition, to all outward appearances, has been absolutely normal, the assurance of the physicians that the end was only a matter of time has, of course, caused us to preserve the utmost quiet and privacy around him.

"The simplest facts are as follows—and God knows they are pathetic enough without being embellished with parallel-for statements:

"Tuesday afternoon my brother returned to Macon from a trip to north Georgia, where he went to Sentelle-Hunt near Milledgeville, where his wife was spending a few days with her father. He left there and got back home about 6 o'clock. He went to bed, but about again some time between 3 and 4 o'clock, suffering from a severe headache.

Vomited Part of Tablet

"It was then that he made the mistake which may cost him his life. Thinking he was taking a tablet of asperin he took one of mercury. Going back to bed hauses set in, and he vomited a portion of the tablet.

"Realizing that he must have made a mistake he went to the telephone and 'phoned Dr. Stapler. Dr. Stapler reached the house in a few minutes and immediately summoned other physicians, who at once applied a stomach pump. His stomach was cleared of the drug before all of the tablet had dissolved, but before the poison had taken sufficient effect to paralyze the kidneys.

"Since then he has been surrounded by the members of his immediate family, but no other living being except the doctors and nurses have seen him." The family in which Macon has been stirred by the tragedy which is hanging over the Walker family is manifested in the way in which the members of the family approached when they appear on the streets of the city.

In the course of a walk of two blocks, The Constitution representative and Dr. Stapler were stopped every few feet by anxious friends wanting to know the latest reports from the stricken home.

The reports that Mr. Walker is worth $700,000 are also unfounded, although it is true that he is comfortably wealthy.

Started Realty Boom.

The business men of the city unite in saying that to his efforts a few years ago that the present boom in Macon real estate was started. He was the first to show his faith in the realty values of the city, with the result that others soon followed and the boom was on.

He has lived for the past seven years in the famous Sydney Lanier home, on High street.

It has also become known since the announcement that his death might soon ensue that Mr. Walker was in a quiet way one of the most liberal contributors to the charities of the city. His benefactions have made him loved among the orphans of the Lizzibah home here, especially, and immediately following the news of his trouble services were held by the waifs at that institution.

During the past week not only have the protestant ministers of the city, but the Jewish rabbis and the Catholic priests and sisters of charity have expressed their sympathy to the members of the family. When it is known that Mr. Walker has been a resident of Macon only five years, the sort of man he is can be realized. If he dies the city will lose a citizen that has done much for its benefit.

All of the members of his immediate family, including his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Walker, of Monroe; his brother, Hon. Clifford Walker, also of Monroe, and four sisters, Mrs. Paul Vose and Mrs. J. B. McCrary both of Atlanta; Mrs. Frank Harrell, of Americus, and Miss Louise Walker, now at Lucy Cobb, are now in Macon.

Mrs. Walker, who was at the country home of her father, W. C. Stevens, returned to the city on Wednesday morning. As Miss Marie Stevens, she was one of the most popular society girls of Macon, and her wedding to Mr. Walker was a brilliant event of about five years ago. The only child, a boy of about 4, is unusually handsome, being strikingly like his father.

EMMA GOLDMAN MADE TO LEAVE SAN DIEGO

San Diego, Cal., May 20.—Emma Goldman and Ben Reitman, anarchists, were arrested today on their arrival from Los Angeles and taken to the city limits. They boarded a train for Los Angeles.

The program was arranged by the police and agreed to by the prisoners. Mrs. Goldman said, it is alleged, that she would never again attempt to speak in San Diego. Her purpose in coming was to deliver a lecture.

As soon as it became known that Mrs. Goldman and Reitman, who was tarred and feathered and run out of town last year by vigilantes, were in the city jail crowds gathered, but no violence was attempted.

The police say they arrested the couple to prevent a repetition of the vigilantes' episode.

Secretary of State Praised at the Sixth Mass Meeting of Presbyterians.

"Thank God we have a great secretary of state who, in his social life, invites the highest ambassadors of the world to get on the water wagon with him," said Rev. J. Knox McClurkin, of the United Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, Pa., in addressing the sixth mass meeting of the Presbyterian assemblies in the Atlanta Auditorium last night.

Though last night's crowd at the mass meeting was not as large as some that have preceded it in this convention, yet it was one of the most attentive and appreciative.

Owing to pressing affairs of state Senator Hoke Smith, who was to have presided, could not be present, so Rev. S. L. Morris, of the home mission board in Atlanta, acted in his place.

Mission Program.

The evening was given to a missionary program. Rev. Dr. W. McF. Alexander, of the Southern Presbyterian church, New Orleans, delivered one of the most broad-minded sermons of the assemblies. Taking as his subject "Interdenominational Co-Operation in Home Mission Work," he urged unity on the field of action in home mission overlapping by the various Presbyterian denominations be done away with, but said that he would not advocate one united church for America at the present time.

"I have a father see a little Arizona town with three or four churches or various denominations in it than a Russian or a Spanish town with but one church," he said.

"Frankly, I think that in the city of Atlanta, and other like cities, it is a good thing to have a Presbyterian church here, and just around the corner a Methodist church, and a little further down the street a Baptist church, and still further down, even, a Roman Catholic church. I think that the Lord must have willed it that we have the denominations which we have today."

Home Missions.

Rev. C. L. Thompson, of the Northern Presbyterian church, New York city, spoke on "Home Missions and Exceptional Populations." He urged that the negroes, the mountaineers and the emigrants especially be cared for.

"And I would not have you forget Latin America," he said. "You cannot have an enlightened civilization north of Panama, and an unenlightened one south of the isthmus and ever-speed great progress on this western hemisphere.

Rev. Dr. J. Knox McClurkin, whose chief tribute to Secretary of State Bryan brought forth prolonged applause, eulogized J. K. Orr and Marion Jackson of Atlanta, in his address. "And while we are speaking of home missionaries we must not forget these two worthy sons of Atlanta—Orr and Jackson—who have been another kind of missionary to the fair city of Atlanta. Would that we had more of them."

Continuing his address, Dr. McClurkin urged more social service in the name of the Christ.

"You may call some men hunkies and dagoes and niggers, but you cannot forget that they are your brothers in Christ," he said. "It is the voice of the Christ which is urging this great social service program. It is His voice which is making the sermon on the mount the rule by which the marts of our national life are coming to be governed.

Recompense Too Small.

"It is His voice which is crying, while a nation listens, 'No more shall 5,000,000 women toil for a wage which is less than 17 per week, no more shall 2,000,000 children in our fair land be yoked to the wheel of toil before childhood is passed, no more shall hundreds of young girls yearly be duped unto vice by the commercialized agents of wrong.'

"It is this same voice of Christ which says that no more shall 100,000 rooms in one great city be constructed without the light of day being able to enter.

"It is the voice of this great master of men which is calling to us to lift the load of the weak and the wearying, and bring to them the hope of a new life."

One of the features of the evening was the singing of the National male quartet. Dr. Ralph Atkinson, of Seattle, Wash., lead the choir and congregation through the hymns of the evening in his customary magnetic manner. Dr. Atkinson's work is proving to be one of the most delightful features of the mass meetings.

CHURCH COUNCIL IS ATTACKED

assembly formally adopted the brief, in spite of many eloquent addresses made against it. Prominent among those opposing the adoption of the statement were Dr. W. M. McPheeters, of Columbia, S. C., and Dr. R. F. Campbell, of Asheville, N. C. Dr. G. B. Strickler, ex-moderator of the assembly, of Richmond, also made an address, pointing out the weaknesses of the statement, and making an appeal for "spreading the belief by broadcasting" rather than by "statement of written creed."

Dr. James I. Vance, of Nashville, who submitted the statement last week in behalf of the committee that had prepared it, made a strong address in its defense Tuesday afternoon, calling attention to the need of a really "usable" statement of belief—one that could be read and understood by everybody. Dr. W. M. Alexander, of New Orleans, also spoke warmly for the statement.

"Hyper-Calvinism is no milk for babies," said Dr. Alexander. "It is strong meat for strong men, and there are few laymen who will attempt to feed on it." The brief statement of our belief is one step toward placing the doctrine before the people in specific form, and as such is greatly needed."

There were a number of minor changes of words and phrases in the statement before it was finally adopted, but it was essentially the same form in which it was presented by the committee.

The report of the committee on systematic beneficence was resumed Tuesday morning, and after a lively discussion the assembly voted to restore to the power of the committee of nominating members and secretaries of the executive committee of the assembly which power had been removed in 1912. Its restoration was opposed by Dr. W. M. F. Alexander, while Dr. T. S. Clyce spoke in favor of giving the power back to the committee again.

Dr. Hall declared that the federal council is planning to open an office in Washington city within the year for the direct purpose of keeping in touch with political measures and influencing legislation. The council sent a special committee to Washington, he said, which conferred with the president over the Chinese situation and urged the recognition of the Chinese republic. Dr. Hall put these facts in a light which reflected on the sincerity and religious spirit of the council, bearing out his charge that it is primarily a political body.

Dr. Lowry, whose minority report was signed by two other members of the committee, was more conservative in his attack on the council than Dr. Hall.

Too Many Organizations.

"We don't need to stay in this organization to prove to the world that we believe in the spirit of unity," said Dr. Lowry. "Our assembly is a member of the Pan-Presbyterian council, the Federation of Reformed churches and the Evangelical alliance. The character and practices of the federal council have grown to be such that we should no longer remain in that body, and therefore we should sever our connection at once.

"There are too many organizations in the world, anyway. Visionary men are all the time forming new bodies and new organizations, and the whole church is beset with a bad case of 'too much organization.'"

At this point Dr. Lowry quoted from the Christ, the writings of Shailer Mathews, president of the federal council, indicating that he did not believe in the deity of Jesus and Christ, or in the fall of all men through the sin of Adam.

"He is a man who explains the story of the resurrection by saying that they believed they saw Jesus, which amounted to the same thing, as His spirit was there," said Dr. Lowry.

of education, it was resolved to establish out of the general funds of the assembly, so far as possible, chairs of the Bible in each United Presbyterian college. Likewise the charter will be changed so that they may handle endowment funds for educational purposes. It was also recommended that the board of education be authorized by the general assembly to elect consultive members as they may deem wise.

Likewise the board of education was authorized to lend funds to young medical students who wished to enter the medical mission field. A warm fight rose at this point as to whether the student should be required to refund the money loaned, if there was no vacancy in the field for him, and he was ready to go.

Some of the leading commissioners said that it would be an injustice, while others stated that it was only fair. After quite a little discussion, it was finally decided that the student should repay all funds loaned him in case of no vacancy in the foreign fields.

At one of today's sessions of the assembly of the United Presbyterian church next years' convention city will be voted upon. At present there are three prominent candidates for this honor—Monmouth, Ill.; New Castle, Pa., and Xenia, Ohio.

The candidates are about equally divided on the question, and in probability some warm rivalry will spring up when the question of voting arrives.

OLD GUARD HAILED AT WHITE HOUSE

President and Mrs. Wilson Receive Atlanta Organization—Old Guard Made a Brave Showing.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 20.—(Special.)—President and Mrs. Wilson received the delegation of the Old Guard, military organization from Atlanta, this afternoon in the historic east room of the white house and congratulated them on undertaking the tour of fellowship and good will.

Major Joseph F. Burke, commanding the detachment, was presented to the president and Mrs. Wilson by Senator Hoke Smith, and in turn introduced the other members of the party, each of whom received a cordial handshake. No speeches were made, and after the presentations, the party filed out. A hugh boquet of American Beauty roses was presented by the company to Mrs. Wilson.

As they marched through Pennsylvania avenue on their way to the white house, preceded by the United States Engineers' band and escorted by a company of the Washington Light Infantry, the Old Guard presented a striking appearance and attracted much favorable comment. Although less than one-third of the battalion was present, they made a brave showing. The ladies of the part yfollowed in autos.

After the reception some of the visitors attended the drill of the High School cadets, while others visited the capitol and watched the deliberations of the senate. The house was not in session.

Tomorrow the party leaves for Baltimore, and from there will go to New York and Boston, returning by steamer from New York.

Representative Howard, of the fifth, and Representative Hardwick, of the tenth district, accompanied the delegation to the white house today.

Chief W. B. Cummings said it would be "a pipe" to be chief of the fire department of Washington. "There's little here to burn up," said the chief. "I never saw so much marble and granite and bronze in my life."

"Who is this old duffer," aked Bill McMillen, as he stopped before a marble effigy in the house of representatives' corridor.

"That's Uncle Joe Cannon," replied the guide.

"Where's his cigar?" asked Private McMillen.

"How do you expect a sculptor to make a marble cigar" said one of the party, with an air of finality.

"Well, he doesn't look natural to me," insisted Private Bill.

Captain Harrison Jones was deeply interested in getting any inside information he could on the California Japanese situation.

"I just wanted to keep posted," he said, "not that I am loking for trouble."

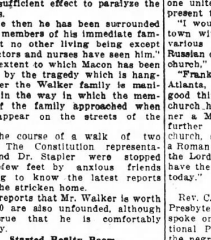
Healthy Baby is Precious Blessing

To Make It Healthy and Keep It Healthy Use a Reliable Baby Laxative



DOROTHY JOHNSON.

In spite of the greatest personal care and the most intelligent attention to diet, babies and children will become constipated, and it is a fact that constipation and indigestion have wrecked many a young life. To start with a good digestive apparatus is to start life without handicap.

But as we cannot all have perfect working bowels we must do the next best thing and acquire them, or train them to become healthy. This can be done by the use of a laxative-tonic very highly recommended by a great many mothers. The remedy is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and has been on the market for two generations. It can be bought conveniently at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, and those who are already convinced of its merits buy the dollar size.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect and genuinely harmless. Very little of it is required and its frequent use will not cause it to lose its effect, as is the case with so many other remedies.

Thousands can testify to its merits in constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headaches, etc., among them reliable people like Mrs. M. Johnson, 752 Dayton St., Kenosha, Wis. She is the mother of little Dorothy Johnson, who was always in delicate health until her mother gave her Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Johnson says: "I never saw such rapid improvement in the health of anyone. Syrup Pepsin is a wonderful remedy and I shall never be without it again." Thousands keep Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it from infancy to old age. The users of Syrup Pepsin have learned to avoid cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and other harsh remedies for they do but temporary good and are a shock to any delicate system.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Again the Wonderful Curative Power of Quaker Herb Extract Is Displayed

This time it is no other than a young man, 20 years of age. Mr. Charles D. Owens, who resides with his parents at East Point, this city. He has been a sufferer for the past five years with what was supposed to be some form of stomach trouble, but, after taking six doses of Quaker Extract, expelled a monster 51-foot tape-worm, head and all complete.

Mr. Owens is a young man of this city. Although 20 years of age, he has had a hard struggle with life. The commencement of his trouble was about four years ago. He would have a great distress in his stomach, bloating, belching, sometimes fluttering of the heart, short breath, dizziness, headache sometimes pains in the back of head, or in back of lower bowels, sometimes extending down into the lower limbs. Charley, as he is familiarly called, has had several very good positions, but owing to his poor health would have to give them up after a short time. He has had several attacks of fever. Four years ago he was laid up for several weeks; in fact, have been very much alarmed, and the strangest thing of it all, with all his poor health, he could eat more at one meal than an ordinary small family. After eating a good, hearty meal within one hour he would be hungry again, and still he grew thinner and weaker. During all these five years he has been trying different treatments, dosing with almost everything on the market, but nothing he took ever gave him even the slightest relief, and so he suffered on, as he said, when he called at Coursey & Munn's drug store and told how he suffered with his stomach, and told about all the treatments he had taken, without the least results. He was told then that a tapeworm was causing all his trouble. I truly believe, and if it is, you take this Quaker Extract, according to directions on the bottle, and watch for results. He did, and behold six—just six—doses were taken. He felt a little disturbance in his bowels, responding to nature's call, and expelled a monster tapeworm, head and all, squirming and alive, and this monster 51 feet in length.

This case should convince even the most skeptical of the wonderful power of the Quaker Remedies. Where the worm-expelling power is a great thing, it is one of the smallest virtues of the wonderful Quaker Extract and Life Balm. They are cures for rheumatism, catarrh, kidney, liver, stomach or blood trouble, constipation, indigestion, and will build up weak, rundown man or woman. Obtain the Quaker Remedies at Coursey & Munn's Drug Store, 29 Marietta street. We prepay all express charges on orders of $3.00 or over. Quaker Extract, 6 for $5.00 or 3 for $2.50. Oil of Balm, 25c or 5 for $1.00. (adv.)

Food.

"And are you sure, my poor man, that you have had no food today?" asked the kind old lady, as she handed for a coin.

"Not a drop, ma'am," replied Red Nose Mike.

Young men's clothes are a special feature of our work; a big business in itself. One reason for our success in this field is that we do not limit ourselves to the styles for any one locality; we make models for young men everywhere.

You'll find coats in all widths of shoulder, all lengths, all shapes of body; many different models in waistcoats; trousers from the extreme narrow English type, to the ultra peg-top.

College men, smartly dressed young fellows in city, or small town, or country, will find their styles among them.

Our suits at $25 particularly interest young men; because there's the real economy of quality in them. We make others at $18 and $20, and up to $50; the young man can't afford to wear cheap clothes.

FELLOWSHIP PLEAS MADE TO 500 DINERS

Inspiring Speeches Urging Co-operation at Presbyterian Brotherhood Conference.

Vigorous pleas for fellowship, inspiration and co-operation were made to nearly 500 diners at the brotherhood conference and supper, given at the Kimball house to the assembled Presbyterians last night.

The program was so inspiring and practical that it will go down in the history of the presbytery as one of the most advanced movements to unite workers in all branches of church work. The great value of Bible classes for men was outlined by Dr. Stanley B. Roberts, of Minneapolis. Dr. William S. Jacobs, of Houston, sent out a message to ministers and laymen.

The speakers were selected at random from among those seated around the table, and they were confined to addresses of not longer than two minutes. Some of the speakers confined their remarks to the work of the brotherhood, and others remarked on some of the most vital questions concerning the church.

Fellowship and Inspiration.

"Fellowship, Inspiration and Co-operation"—those were the sentiments which inspired each speaker. Great emphasis was placed on the religious phases of the work, but the social side of the organization, which is to promote fellowship, was not overlooked. Dr. A. L. Phillips, secretary of the board of education of the Sunday schools, U. S., spoke on "Presbyterian Brotherhood." He related a number of amusing incidents in his work.

A message from Arkansas was delivered to the conference by Dr. Will W. Derby, of Clarksville. He said that the aspect of the work is reaching out to men, and declared that the brotherhood will become an ever increasing power for good in every community.

Discussing the work in New York, Dr. T. S. Merrill, of the Men's organization, told the conference that the clubs organized to carry out the aims of the brotherhood were used by the things they accomplished. He made a stirring appeal for fellowship. He said that the Men's club, of New York, was specializing in the work of taking up strangers and bringing them into the classes. He also explained what is being done in the metropolis to induce young men to join the church.

Dr. Marion Hull, of Atlanta, was introduced to the conference as "the man who cleaned up Atlanta." Dr. Hull, embarassed, arose with the explanation that the chairman evidently referred to Marion Jackson, and every one joined in a hearty laugh at the expense of the chairman.

Ministers Are Men.

Moderator Russell, of the U. P. assembly, urged that the members of the brotherhood not forget that ministers are men, and should be assisted. Stanley B. Roberts, of Minneapolis, spoke of the great work of the Bible classes for men. He said that Atlanta's hospitality would never be forgotten.

Team work was advocated by A. T. Sharp, and Congressman James Morrison, of Indiana, said that the assembly had taught him many things. "I came here to absorb and not to make suggestions," he said, "I feel that I can go back home and meet my people as a Christian man should."

Interdenominational fellowship was advocated by Dr. Rufus W. Miller, founder of one of the largest Bible classes in the country.

At the close all present joined in singing "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

FOUND MAN IN HOME, NOW SUES FOR DIVORCE

Robert S. Franks filed petition for divorce in the superior court yesterday against Mrs. Ella A. Franks, declaring as the principal reason for the action that on November 20, 1911, he went to his home at 80 West Cain street and found his wife and a man named John Collier, both intoxicated, in the dining room. He says that the man refused to leave and, as Collier was a cripple, he called the police.

Franks adds in his petition that he then refused to live with his wife and that she went to Mible and they have been separated since. He declares that he married her in July, 1902, when she was Mrs. Amanda Ella Goode, of Birmingham. The wedding, he says, took place in Anniston, Ala. Franks adds other charges of intoxication against his wife, and states that on a previous occasion she threatened his life while under the influence of liquor.

COTTON PICKED FREE FOR GEORGIA FARMERS

Inventors Anxious to Test New Machine Which Worked Well in Small Field.

If any farmers in Georgia would like to make trial this fall of a mechanical cotton picker in their fields rather than the time-worn Georgia darky, they may have an opportunity to do so by communicating with the commissioner of agriculture. Commissioner J. J. Conner was in receipt yesterday of a communication from a farmer in Dallas county, Alabama, in which he said:

"I have been requested by the Wallis Lispenard Cotton Harvester corporation, of New York city, to find some planter who is willing to allow it to make a thorough test of its cotton picker in his fields. This picker is the result of several years' costly an opatient experiment carried on without any bluster or noise. I have seen the machine work at Selma, Ala., in small fields, and it does fine work. It gets approximately 5 per cent of the open cotton, and does no damage to stalk, leaves, bolls or blooms. It is desired by the concern to get on a plantation where there is a large lot of cotton planted, so that the machine can find work daily. The tests would be subject to the orders of the planter, and what cotton was picked would cost him nothing.

"A place is wanted close to a city and on a railroad if possible. Are there any large cotton plantations close to Atlanta? If there are, it would be an ideal place, I think."

As to his standing, the writer refers the commissioner to three banks of Selma, Ala. While Commissioner Conner knows nothing of the merits of the machine in question, he realizes that a successful cotton picking machine would be of vast advantage to Georgia and the whole south, and thinks it worth while that the farmers should have an opportunity to try the new invention out.

YOUNG MEN NEEDED IN MINISTERIAL WORK

The report of the Woman's board of the United Presbyterian assembly submitted Tuesday morning showed that a greater number of unmarried women had entered the missionary field than the preceding year. The report which also showed that there was no deficit, was adopted in full without discussion.

Although the reports showed that missionaries are on the increase, yet the number of young men entering the ministerial field this year has decreased. It was shown that while thirty-two ministers had passed away during the course of the year, only eighteen had entered the field.

It was urged that more steps be taken to induce young men to consider entering the ministerial field.

ACCEPT INVITATION TO HEAR LAST LECTURE

Shriners Will Be Present When Dr. Elliott, of New York, Closes Ethical Course.

It was announced yesterday that over 300 members of the Mystic Shrine of Atlanta had accepted invitations to attend the last lecture of the ethical series which have been provided during the past six months by the Atlanta Ethical Lecture committee.

Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, head of the Hudson Guild of New York city, and one of the most noted social workers in the United States, has been selected by the prominent Atlantans in charge of the lectures to close the 1912-13 season.

In bringing Dr. Elliott to Atlanta the committee has aroused great enthusiasm among local organizations, particularly those molded along uplift lines. The Parent-Teachers' association of the city has, through its officers, signified its intention of attending the lectures in great numbers.

Typos Will Attend.

One of the most interesting groups of Atlantans who have promised to hear Dr. Elliott on Thursday evening in Cable hall will be the members of the Atlanta Typographical union, whose officers have written a letter to M. H. Wilensky, chairman of the lecture committee, declaring it a pleasure for the body to greet Dr. Elliott, as his work for social and labor organization has merited the support of all persons in all stratas of society.

Dr. Elliott comes here directly from New York. He will not deliver any other lectures in the south this season, and educators and teachers from outside of the city are expected to be in attendance as his knowledge of child culture is recognized by leading educators the country over.

Over 1,000 invitations have been sent out for this final lecture in the ethical course. The lecture is free, it having been made open to the public through the benefaction of over half a hundred of Atlanta's most prominent men and women who think along uplift lines.

SALE OF WHISKY BY CLUBS BARRED

Court of Appeals Holds Steward of Brunswick Social Club Liable to Jail Sentence.

Any sale of intoxicating liquor by a steward or other employee of a locker club, even though such sale is entirely for the benefit of the club and the employee making it derives no profit therefrom, is in violation of the prohibition law, and renders the seller liable to fine and imprisonment.

Such is the law, accordir to an opinion handed down by the court of appeals yesterday in the case of Rothchild v. the state, appealed from the superior court of Glynn county. The language of the court is clear and unequivocal, and will make "hard sledding" for locker clubs throughout the state, if the law is enforced.

Employee No Defense.

The fourth and fifth head notes of the opinion, which is written by Chief Justice Ben Hill, are as follows:

"On the trial of an indictment for selling liquor, it is no defense that the accused sold the liquor as the employee of a social club to the members thereof. Intoxicating liquors cannot be sold in this state by an individual or a corporation as a beverage, and when a steward of a social club sells to the members of the club intoxicating liquors, he is guilty of violating the law, which is known as the prohibition law, although in making the sale he is acting solely for the benefit of the club.

"The evidence for the state demanded the conviction and the statement of the accused, to the effect that in selling the intoxicating liquor he was acting solely for the benefit of the club, and that he received no personal benefit from such sales, constituted no defense."

Ike Rothchild was steward of the Brunswick Oglethorpe club. He was indicted for selling whisky, and on the trial he pleaded that the sales brought no profit to himself, but were entirely for the benefit of the club. Notwithstanding, he was convicted, on the effect that any place where intoxicating liquors are sold, is a blind tiger, and may be enjoined as a public nuisance, has drawn a cordon around the prohibition law through which it will be much harder for violators to escape in the future.

FARMERS REJOICING OVER RECENT RAINS

Practically Every Station in the Cotton Region Reports an Inch of Rainfall.

Conditions throughout the state have greatly changed from a weather viewpoint during the past three days. Practically every station in the cotton region has reported at least an inch of rain in that time, and farmers are generally rejoicing at the break to the long dry spell.

Locally over 1.25 inches of rain have fallen since the first of May, and most of it has come within the past two days. A good rain fell Monday night and another rain followed Tuesday afternoon, that soaked well into the earth. About half an inch has fallen in and around Atlanta during the past twenty-four hours, and the forecast for today is local showers, one of which may strike here.

Valdosta has been one of the dryest stations in the state since March, and practically no rain fell here during April and the first week in May. Recently two inches of rainfall have been reported. Washington and Cuthbert also reported heavy rains within the past three days, and the residents of the farming regions are greatly encouraged.

The temperature which has reached a maximum of 88 degrees each day since Sunday went to 82 degrees on Tuesday, and about the same temperature is predicted for today.

SEPARATED BY STRAWS.

Only theological straws separate the four great Presbyterian bodies now in session in Atlanta; they are already a unity so far as agreement on fundamentals is concerned. That must be the conclusion reached by the casual observer after studying the successive sessions of these assemblies, whether held apart or in the great daily union meeting. Those who hope for and believe in organic union of all the different branches of Presbyterianism should find encouragement in this plainly-disclosed fact.

Already there are concrete evidences of approaching union. Overtures between the Southern Presbyterian church and the United Presbyterian have reached that stage where prophecy of early amalgamation is justified. Other branches of the denomination, those represented here and those unrepresented, have as yet reached no definite basis of organic agreement. It was not, in the nature of things, to be expected that the minor divergencies of decades would be melted in a few days.

But the events in Atlanta for the past eight days have demonstrated so clearly the comparatively trivial nature of these divergencies that the simultaneous holding of assemblies has already justified its wisdom. Commissioners will return to their respective presbyteries impressed by the slenderness of the barriers that separate the different branches. As the days pass the rank and file will recognize that details only, and not essentials, stand in the way of complete church union.

The bringing of the Presbyterians into one fold would have looked a harder task had the decisive tests of the past few days revealed antagonisms on fundamentals. Divergence would then have seemed more hopeless than ever. But with the four branches a unit on issues that really make Presbyterianism, it should be a matter of a short time only to bring them togecher on issues that are merely mechanical subsidiaries to the great cardinal principles of the faith, and in working harmony one organization. That is why the meeting in Atlanta is historic.

THE CHURCH AND THE NEGRO.

Are the churches finally to awaken from their sleep and join hands in meeting that paramount and menacing problem, the question of the negro? There is hope in that direction in the fact that the executive committee of the council of the reformed churches in America, now in session in Atlanta, and including all Presbyterian branches, has recommended that its members co-operate in work among the negroes. Should the recommendation prevail, the Presbyterian church will establish a historic precedent and the first step will be taken toward removing an omission that now indicts most of the church organizations in America.

During the past few days in Atlanta and the rest of the country we have heard much of foreign missions. Report after report has told of enthusiasm over achievements in China, Japan, Oceania, Africa, India, South America. Amid tremendous religious fervor and spectacular exhibitions huge funds have been raised to Christianize, to educate and uplift heathen along the Yangste-Kiang, the Ganges, the Amazon, in the Congo.

Now, the test of missionary work is need. The churches believe they are needed in these far-off places, and they cheerfully expend fortunes and risk life to discharge their duty.

We say advisedly that here in America, among the hundreds of negroes in the south, there is need more vast, appeal more immediate, than in any other part of the world. The heathen abroad are not comparable to the half-heathen in our midst. There are statistics to show, admitted by representative negroes themselves, that the masses of the race are in some respects in worse condition than before the civil war. We eliminate the humanitarian motive. Considered solely from the standpoint of the welfare of the white man, the appeal is overwhelming. Immorality is wholesale among the masses of the negroes. Immorality leads to disease. Disease respects no racial boundaries. It crosses the border line of the black man and infect the white man with murderous democracy. The negro suffers from other than social diseases. He is quick prey to tuberculosis, typhoid—virtually all the diseases that are transmissible. In each of these aspects, and from every angle bearing on unspeakable sanitary living conditions, he is a threat to the white man, no less than to the perpetuation of his own race. His efficiency is being eaten out at the core. He is cursed with an indolence that, unchecked, will make him worthless to himself and a simple parasite on American civilization.

Each and every one of these first causes reach back to lack of religion. What are the churches doing to combat them? Virtually noching. The appeal of distance is romantic, the tale of far-off wrongs alluring, the story of remote abuses challenging. The churches answer all three—and ignore the greater need within shadow of their spires. The result is tragic, menacing. Let us hope that the action by the council of reformed churches is forerunner of similar action by all the churches.

Foreign missions are excellent. But for every dollar sent the heathen abroad at least another should be spent upon the half-heathen at home.

A CASE FOR THE NATION.

The Japanese controversy has progressed beyond the jurisdiction of California and becomes now solely a question between Japan and the United States. That California should never have been allowed to project itself into the issue is indicated in the recent unofficial publication of interchanges between the department of state and the foreign office at Tokio. The substance of these is that Japan is not concerned over the mere handful of Japanese in this country. There is room enough for her surplus subjects in the Orient. What has aggrieved the Japanese is the palpable discrimination as contrasted with our treatment of other nations.

Views of this nature are wholly borne out by the testimony of unbiased Americans. The Constitution cited recently, for example, the opinions of J. K. Ohl, formerly of this paper, and later far eastern correspondent for The New York Herald. Mr. Ohl declares that having just emerged into the council of the great nations, and having conquered one of the most important of them, Japan resents the constant baiting and intimations of inequality meted out by some of our Pacific states.

These conditions furnish all the more reason why the nation and not one state or several states should pass upon situations of this delicacy. The issue is, in the last analysis, a national one, and should not be muddled by state interference. When the present agitation is disposed of, the statesmanship and diplomacy of this country should be equal to the task of arranging a program that will compel all states having a grievance involving international relations to adjudicate it through the federal government.

HENRY M. FLAGLER.

One of the nation's master-dreamers and master-builders has passed in the death of Henry M. Flagler. He illustrated almost perfectly that type of superman in finance and development that has made America distinct in world history.

Had he done nothing else than aided in the creation and evolution of the Standard Oil company he would have loomed formidable in his day. But it is likely that the work of the later years of his life, the exploitation of Florida, and particularly the construction of the "railroad that goes to sea" between Key West and the mainland, will be laid down as the greatest achievement to his credit.

Flagler owned three great assets: Farflung mental vision, tenacious courage and the ability to convince others of the plausibility of his dreams. He saw in Florida what no other man had seen—its marvelous adaptability to winter resort uses and its agricultural richness, both three-quarters buried when first he visited the peninsula. By reason of his exertions and his capital, Florida has been transformed into the "Riviera of America." The oversea railroad, projected in the face of overwhelming skepticism, has brought the United States many hours nearer Cuba and made the "Hermit City" part of the mainland.

A dreamer who wrought with tools of substance, and that vastly, he leaves an abiding impression on his own age.

It is said "Japan is willing to reason with us," but her opinion is—there is no reason in us.

"Sleep," sings the south wind over vale and steep:
"On a bed of blossoms sweet be your sleep!
Where the daisies whiten, or where the roses throng,
Sleep soothe your sorrow—sleep be your song.

Still the waking is to weep,
Sleep—O sleep!"

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 20.—(Special.)—President Wilson took office as an advocate of the "open door." Even before his inauguration he promised that all public business would be transacted in full view of the people.

John Corrigan, Jr.

This attitude was construed to mean that the fullest publicity would mark all the deliberations of the new administration, unless it concerned some delicate diplomatic matter that might be prejudiced by too much premature talk.

While the president in his semi-weekly talks with the newspaper men has been very willing to reply to any and all questions, and Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the president, is both accessible and approachable, members of the president's cabinet have been extremely reticent.

On cabinet days, now more than habit than for any other reason, newspaper men wait for the cabinet members to appear following a two or three hour session, and no cabinet member escapes queries from two or more representatives of the press. But these gentlemen now never have anything to say.

In the Olden Days.

This is most surprising. William J. Bryan, the secretary of state, has always been a good news source. And Josephus Daniels, himself a newspaper man, usually never failed in the past to come across with a story. Secretary Lane, when he was on the interstate commerce commission, was considered the reporters' best friend, and Postmaster General Burleson, when a representative in congress, was a most dependable source of information.

But grave responsibilities have apparently brought with them an abundance of caution. Indeed, there has been such a dearth of news obtainable from cabinet members after their twice-a-week sessions that one facetious newspaper man has designated the carpeted hall along which the cabinet members walk after leaving the cabinet room in the executive offices, and where they are approached by the representatives of the press, as "pussy-foot" alley, and the name clings to it.

At the beginning, this was expected. Old Washington newspaper men declared that this was always true of a new cabinet until they got "broke in" and became more familiar with their new surroundings. They expected this disposition to wear away with time, but so far the Wilson cabinet has maintained and continues its original reply to all queries, "We have nothing to say," with remarkable fortitude.

Different Here.

At the departments, it is somewhat different. There they are more disposed to talk, especially upon departmental affairs, and appointments, but the fact remains that the Wilson cabinet has been in session at different intervals since the fourth of March, so far as any one knows on the outside, may have been spent in discussing Mexico, California anti-alien land laws, or Secretary of State Bryan's new silk hat.

Everybody, however, hopes for a change in this state of affairs. As the newspaper men and the cabinet members become better acquainted in their new and different relations, it is believed that some step will be taken to have one of the members of the cabinet act as spokesman for the lot, and give out just what news they believe ought to be made public. This has been suggested several times, but so far without result. But the newspaper men are not bashful about making a suggestion more than once, and they propose to keep hammering away until they get results.

Democracy's Plans.

A continuous campaign for three years is planned by the democratic leaders. They are already preparing for the congressional campaign of next year and the presidential campaign of 1916. The opening of headquarters of the democratic national campaign committee here means the fight is already on. Conferences have been held for the last two days between members of the finance committee of the national committee, President Wilson, and other party leaders.

The plans of the democratic managers to retain the party in power were outlined by Homer S. Cummings, acting chairman of the democratic national committee. Mr. Cummings is a member of the committee from Connecticut and as vice chairman is in charge of the committee's work in the absence of Chairman McCombs in Europe.

"Democracy has been misrepresented in the past," said Mr. Cummings, "and it is desired to avoid misrepresentations in the future. For this reason there will be a bureau in operation here continuously, in charge of Thomas Jerome, of North Carolina, to get the facts as we see them before the public. The campaign of publicity will keep in constant touch with several thousand newspapers throughout the country. This work costs money and for that reason the finance committee of the national committee was called on to confer.

"The national and the congressional committees will co-operate to the fullest practicable extent. They have always co-operated to some extent in the past. Duplication of work will be avoided and both committees will be represented in a joint campaign committee which will have charge of the work of the congressional campaign next year. It was the president's idea, which the conference heartily approved, that there should be a number of active senatorial members of the congressional committee. The latter will work to secure the election of senators as well as representatives, which is eminently fitting, in view of the recent ratification of the constitutional amendment providing for the election of senators by direct vote of the people.

"A vigorous campaign will be carried on from now until next year's elections in states where senators are to be elected. The committee will be busy in Connecticut, where Senator Brandegee's successor is to be elected, in Illinois where Senator Sherman's term expires, and elsewhere.

"Everything looks favorable for the progressive democratic party. On all sides, I have heard words of praise and expressions of good will for President Wilson. The people believe in him, and nowhere is there criticism of his course. The country admires his honesty, courage, conviction and tact. The Underwood bill is approved generally except among those in whom is fixed the idea that the government should practice favoritism with certain business men at the expense of the whole people."

The World's Mysteries

DID POE WRITE "THE RAVEN"?

The many admirers of Edgar Allan Poe's beautiful poem, "The Raven," can well imagine the sensation the poem created when it was printed about the middle of the last century. Previous to its writing Poe had contributed to literature several noticeable poems, but here was an exceptional one, and coming from so strange a character, it caused no end of controversy. For a long time there was considerable discussion as to the intentions of the poet in the beautiful lines he had penned, and many of the noted critics dissected the verses and even tried to find more than the general meaning expressed in the title.

In the midst of this controversy a charge was made against Poe that the poem was not original with him, but instead that it was to be found in the Persian. It was contended that Poe had an intimate knowledge of the Oriental language, and had merely translated it, and had preserved the meter with astonishing accuracy and felicity. Several Persian scholars were appealed to for a corroboration or otherwise of this attempt to deprive Poe of the poem upon which his fame mainly rested. A famous tragedienne at this time jumped into the controversy, and there was printed a letter over her signature as follows: "Honor compels me to do justice to a man who had little but his genius to recommend him; and it is certain that the first suspicion thrown will go into many a quarter where the answer will not follow.

"In my mind Poe is entitled to the full credit as having written the poem, and I have in my possession an attempt that he made previous to the writing of 'The Raven' to produce in verse the same peculiar meter which he called 'The Fire Fiend.' Mr. Poe was so unsatisfied with this effort that he threw it aside in disgust. Some months later he sent it to a friend labeled facetiously: 'To be read by firelight at midnight, after thirty drops of laudanum.' I was intimately acquainted with the mother-in-law of Poe, and have frequently conversed with her respecting 'The Raven,' and she assures me that he had the idea in his mind for some time, and was a long time in its writing and used frequently to repeat verses of it to her, and asked her opinion of them.

"Mrs. Clem, knowing the great study I had given to 'The Raven' and the reputation I had gained by the recital of the verses throughout America, took much interest in giving me all the information in her power, and the life and writings of Edgar Allan Poe have been the topic of our conversation for hours.

"M. M'CREADY."

The accusation that Poe translated the poem from the Persian, made by several writers, called forth a vigorous demand of the defenders of the American poet to see this Persian poem. A critic writing in a well-known magazine at the height of the accusation said: "The persons who wish to convince us that this poem is a translation from the Persian would do well to produce the Persian original. Until they accede to this request we shall believe, notwithstanding all their assertions, that they are stating their own fancies, or else downright untruths. When they produce the verses of the original manuscript let the manuscript be examined by competent persons, so that we may be sure that it is older than the first publication of 'The Raven.' Here we may fairly leave the matter for the present."

To go further into the subject, some years ago Dr. Martin, of the Imperial University, Peking, translated the works of a Chinese poet, Kai Yi, who was banished from China about 200 B. C. One of these poems bore a striking resemblance to "The Raven," the ideas and language being almost identical, though the poet was not certain whether the bird was an owl or a crow. The first verse of this poem was as follows:

"On his bed of straw reclining,
Half despairing, half reclining—
When athwart the window sill,
In flew a bird of omen ill,
And seemed inclined to stay."

There is no evidence to show that Poe knew anything of the ancient Chinese poet, but then his detractors affirmed that the Persian poet may have copied or adapted the Chinese poem, changing it to suit his own fancy.

Following the Chinese story came one from Colonel Joyce, who in his new "Life of Edgar Allan Poe" announced that the American poet had copied "The Raven" from the Italian. The gallant colonel quoted many lines to show that save changing "The Parrot" into "The Raven" there was nothing original in Poe's poem. He avers that "The Parrot" was published in Italy in 1819.

Poor Poe! He has been abused, slandered and vilified, and worst of all was accused of stealing other men's ideas. Is it possible that the thoughts of the Chinese and later the Persian poet have been floating around through the centuries and materialized at last in the brains of the Italian and the American in the past century?

Philanthropy

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Philanthropy is a very high class method of putting it back.

When a man gives a dime away, that's charity. When he gives ten dollars that is generosity. But when he gives a million away, that is philanthropy.

Philanthropy has filled the country with orphan asylums, old people's homes, hospitals and missions. And in getting together the money with which to build these things, some of the philanthropists have made enough orphans to fill the asylums, enough poor old people to crowd the homes and enough cripples to congest the hospitals.

It is not necessary to manufacture these orphans and cripples in order to make a great fortune, but it is the easiest way. And this country is a great labor saver.

Some men can make a million by inventing useful machinery, discovering gold mines or selling goods more skillfully than other men. But most men have to do it by paying small wages and getting together with other men to make prices look like a monoplane contest for the altitude record.

Many a man has saved a cistern full of dollars by not installing safety appliances on his machinery and afterwards has become a philanthropist by building a human repair shop to take care of the men who got mixed up in said machinery.

Many a man has employed men and women for a trifle less than a living wage and has sent his name thundering down the ages by building homes to take care of them when they can work no longer.

For this reason many thoughtless people are inclined to look on philanthropy with great scorn. They are the kind of people who, if robbed by a hold-up man, would not be gracious enough to thank him for giving back carfare.

However, there is nothing wrong with philanthropy, and the men who give some of it back are better than those who endow a duke or go rescue work for frayed Barons. If we watched our money more carefully, there would be fewer philanthropists. And there would also be much less need for philanthropy.

"A very high class method of putting it back."

It Was Heavenly!

(From Northeast Georgian.)

Two old yellow wasps, taking the editor's bald head to be an other old nest, flew down upon it Tuesday last afternoon, and what they did for that old cranium was a plenty. You may talk about folks seeing stars, and other heavenly things, but the half has never been told.

DESTINY AND THE LEGISLATURE.

By Philip Weltner, Secretary Prison Association of Georgia

The family drifted into a north Georgia factory town. Their father was a "bucketoter," the wages of the mother and the two older girls going to the support of the family. All were entirely illiterate. Books had the father in its clutch. Pay day was the big day with him. He drank up the hard-earned money of his wife and children. Soon the woman got tired of it. First, she kept her pay envelope. This was a continual source for family fights. So she quit him and took up with somebody else.

The father and children moved to Atlanta. He remained the worthless old creature he had always been. Chronically out of employment, always in debt, occasionally tending bar, moving to beat the landlord—this was his history. The home was a cheerless affair. The youngest slept in the same bed with her father. The two older girls slept under a heap of rags, quilts on the floor, while a boy quartered himself on a set of old springs in a corner.

Of the three girls, the youngest was by far the likeliest. The other two had scarcely been in the city a year before they had become characters of the street, dodging from one night stand to another. And it was not long before their bodies were ravaged by disease. In the midst of it all lives little Ada, so far unscathed. But how long?

The law says Ada is a wayward child, inasmuch as she is the habitual associate of vicious and immoral people.

The law says that Ada ought to be removed from this atmosphere of vice and given an equal chance to grow into self-respecting womanhood.

The law created the Georgia State reformatory to take care of the training of juveniles, both girls and boys, but the state said it did not have money enough to care for anybody but the boys.

Will the next general assembly remember Ada and the hundred or more cases just like hers? On our lawmakers will rest the responsibility. There is only one course for Ada to pursue, and that leads to destruction. Ada never had a chance.

The March of Man.

I.

'Tis the law universal
Where worth is the test,
That you shall not stand idle
In the roadway of rest;
Progress, and endeavor,
And work is God's plan—
Forward, forever.
Is the march of Man!

II.

Onward! is the watchword:
The stars, as they roll,
Cry down from their heights
To the on-faring soul:
"O Spirit immortal,
Be strong in the strife,
Even Death is the portal
From Life unto Life!"

DELAY IS REFUSED IN CONTEMPT CASE

Taking of Evidence in Trial of Colonel W. A. Huff, of Macon, Begins Wednesday Morning.

By Francis W. Clarke.

Macon Ga., May 20.—(Special.)—Actual taking of evidence in the case of Colonel W. A. Huff, one of Macon's most venerable and respected citizens, charged with contempt of court, will begin tomorrow morning. Judge W. I. Grubb, of Birmingham, presiding in the place of Judge Emory Speer, who will probably take the stand tomorrow as one of the witnesses.

Notwithstanding a determined effort on the part of Attorney General Thomas S. Felder, counsel for Colonel Huff, of Atlanta, to have the hearing put off for a considerable time, Judge Grubb refused to do so, and gave him only the balance of the day in which to secure new witnesses which he claims he will need.

Interest in the trial is at white heat in Macon, the defendant being one of the city's most beloved residents. When the case was called this morning the court room had been packed for some time, and interested spectators were hanging in the windows and standing in the doorway while hundreds were forced to leave the building without being able to get near the court room.

When the case was called this morning Mr. Felder offered a motion to dismiss the proceedings, contending that if there had been any act of contempt of court committed by his client it was criminal contempt, while the rule nisi issued by Judge Speer ordering the arrest of Colonel Huff on the charge of contempt had been made part of the civil action of W. L. Bidwell v. W. A. Huff, which is the style of the Huff bankruptcy case long pending in the United States district court. He declared that Colonel Huff could not be held in contempt because no order of the court in the case of Bidwell v. Huff had been violated.

Presents New Motion.

District Attorney Oliver D. Street, of the northern district of Alabama, who is conducting the prosecution on behalf of the government, at that point presented a motion calling on the defendant to show cause why he should not be held in criminal contempt. He declared that Judge Speer should not be criticised for the manner in which he had proceeded, for he had not deprived the defendant of his day in court, pointing out that the case had proceeded no further than the issuance of the order, and the attachment to the defendant to show cause.

Judge Grubb held that now that the government had presented a motion for the defendant to show cause why he should not be held in contempt, the order of Judge Speer, under which Colonel Huff was arrested last July, had no further bearing on the case. He, however, granted the defendant the right to demur to the motion of the government if he so desired.

Mr. Felder declared he had not anticipated the motion of the government an had come into court prepared to fight the case on the ground that it was purely one of criminal contempt instead of civil contempt. He asked for further time in which to prepare an answer and get his witnesses together, adding that he had expected the case to be dismissed on demurer and had made no further preparation.

Judge Grubb told the attorney that he did not think a lawyer had a right to anticipate the ruling of the court and make no preparation for defense. He said the change from civil to criminal contempt case did not offer any excuse to the defendant for not having his witnesses present nor did it justify a postponement in order to give the defendant any further time for preparation, though he was willing to grant one day or possibly longer if it could be shown that there was any chance for a miscarriage of justice.

Delay of One Day.

Mr. Felder asked for a couple of weeks' delay, stating that he had an engagement for next Monday in a long pending case. The court declared, however, that he could not come back to Macon before July and he wanted to proceed. He finally granted a delay until tomorrow, when if the defendant can show that there is a chance for justice to miscarry then he may consider a further continuance.

When the case was called this morning the United States court room was crowded, so great is the interest centering in the outcome. Inside the bar railing two-thirds of the members of the Macon Bar association were seated, while every seat outside the railing and the hallway outside the court room was filled.

Col. W. A. Huff was one of the first to arrive and took a deep interest in what was going on. He appears to have no fear of the outcome.

The contempt case is the outcome of letters sent to Judge Emory Speer, United States district judge, last July, in which Colonel Huff criticized severely the judicial acts of Judge Speer in connection with the handling of the Huff bankruptcy case, and in which he dedicated his life to righting the alleged wrongs which he claims have been inflicted upon he and his family. The Huff bankruptcy case has been in the United States district court for fourteen years.

How Diamonds Will Advance in Price

A diamond now costing $200 will cost $220, as soon as the new tariff bill becomes effective.

The advance made on diamonds by the syndicate on the general run of diamonds averages 14½ per cent yearly. This increase will run the cost of a $200 stone up to $250.

This increase is not a guess, but cold, sound facts.

The tariff bill will no doubt become effective in July or August. Both increases will be felt here in the next few months.

We offer our present stock at the old prices. It will pay you in dollars and cents to anticipate your requirements.

Selections sent on approval. Liberal terms allowed.

YOUNG COLLEGE RENTED BY THE VASHTI HOME

Thomasville, Ga., May 20.—(Special.) The trustees of Young's college have formally leased the college property to those in charge of the Vashti home, and it will be used in connection with the present home, which has done such great work in the support and education of young girls.

The name of Young's college will be retained, and it will be used as an educational institution, thus complying with the requirements under which the original college was founded. The money for this college was left by the late Colonel Remur Young, and under the will this money could never be used for buying or equipping property except for school purposes. The property comprises educational buildings, dormitories, etc., and is eminently fitted for the use of the Vashti home and will enable that institution to accommodate a much larger number of inmates than heretofore.

Allen, of this city, is the owner of a beautiful quilt, of many colors, containing not only that many pieces, but nearly four times as many, with interest quiltmakers. MIDDLE GEORGIA SHIPS FIRST CAR OF PEACHES

Growers Do Not Expect That Crop of State Will Be Over 1,500 Carloads.

Macon, Ga., May 20.—(Special.)—The first carload shipment of Georgia peaches from the middle Georgia territory was shipped east from Macon this afternoon, going to Ne w York. The peaches came from Houston county, around Fort Valley and Marshallville. The majority of them were small and by no means in the same class with those which were being shipped at this time last year, though the price was somewhat better.

Yesterday a good-sized crate shipment went to New York from the Bateman orchards at Byron, and there will be daily shipments from there from now on.

Growers declare they do not expect the Georgia peach crop this year to total more than 1,500 cars, where last year there were 5,200 cars. Last year, though the price was low and the crop so large, it was impossible to handle it properly with the result that many cars were lost en route through deterioration and in many cases the freight amounted to more than the shipper received from the fruit

Good prices are expected to prevail throughout the present season and that grower who has produced the good crop considers himself exceedingly fortunate. As it is, many of the growers will make more money this year on a small crop than they did last year on a large one.

MRS. FELTON FEARS UNDERWOOD REVISION

She Thinks South Will Be Hard Hit—Defends the Southern Cotton Mills.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Cartersville, who came here to protest against Mrs. Longstreet's removal from the Gainesville postoffice, is extremely pessimistic in regard to the Underwood tariff bill. She regards it as dangerous to the south.

Dr. Felton, her husband, who represented the seventh district for many years, was a member of the ways and means committee while in congress. Mrs. Felton then got her first insight into the mysteries of tariff tinkering, and has been keenly interested ever since.

"Georgia and the Carolinas will be very hard hit by the rates in the Underwood bill," said Mrs. Felton. "I have asked for a chance to appear before the finance committee, and will give them my views if I m permitted. Of course, it is only an opinion, but I believe there are good grounds for my belief that sharp reductions in the cotton schedule will be disastrous to our section of the country."

She also believes that President Wilson is making a mistake in insisting upon free sugar.

In speaking of the outcry in the north about twenty years ago against conditions of child labor in southern cotton mills, she said she made a personal inspection of mill communities at that time, and reached the conclusion that the factory operatives were better off than they would have been on the farm. In other words, she believes that it takes a higher grade of intelligence and more in dustry to make a success on the farm than in the factory. She wants to tell the finance committee the results of her study of the cotton mill industry then and since.

Although nearly eighty years of age, Mrs. Felton is still active and keenly interested in current affairs. She was at the white house this afternoon when the Old Guard was received.

TYBEE SUMMER GIRLS WILL BE PROTECTED FROM THE MASHERS

Savannah, Ga., May 20.—Summer girls who foregather at Tybee island, Georgia's Atlantic City, this season need have no fear of the unwelcome advances of the seashore resort masher of the professional variety. Tybee town council has just adopted drastic ordinances placing the ban on any and all forms of "mashing," and the members of the board of aldermen of the little municipality say they are going to see to the enforcement of the provisions of the statutes.

These ordinances provide for a fine of $100 or thirty days in jail, or both, for anyone convicted of disorderly conduct, the principal definition of which, according to the measures, is have been put up all over the island. placards have been put up all over the island.

NEW YORK CITY BONDS ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

New York, May 20.—Four hundred and ninety-two bids were received today for the $45,000,000 issue of bonds bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum. Many of the bids were for allotments of less than $25,000, the total reaching over $56,000,000. Four and a half per cent is the highest interest rate offered by the city in more than a quarter of a century. The chief offers were at par or a fraction over. More bids were received from individual investors than any city bond sale since 1908.

DEATH OF WIDOW MOORE HALTS INSURANCE SUIT

Husband Tried to Collect Insurance on Brother He Was Convicted of Murdering.

Augusta, Ga., May 20.—A telegram from Washington, Ga., Tuesday morning announcing the death of Mrs. Louise Moore, widow of Tom Moore, and administrator of Tom Moore's estate, brought to an abrupt close Mrs. Moore's suit against a life insurance company for the recovery of $3,000, which Tom Moore had on the life of his brother John, whom he was convicted of murdering in 1907.

The case, which was being tried for the fifth time, will now be brought in behalf of another administrator.

The death of Mrs. Moore brings up the total death list to three since a little more than seven years ago, when Tom Moore, a merchant of the quiet little town of Keysville, took out insurance policy of $3,000 on the life of his brother, John. One afternoon in January, 1907, John, Tom and a negro went hunting and John's body was cold. Tom Moore was arrested, tried and convicted of the murder, and was sent to the penitentiary for life. He and old Bill Moore escaped from the state farm, and Tom was killed by a posse.

However, while serving his sentence, Tom brought suit against the Equitable and came down from Milledgeville as the plaintiff in the action which he brought against the insurance company to recover the insurance which was on his brother's life, and which as made payable to him.

Four times the case was tried, on all occasions a mistrial resulting. When Tom Moore was killed the action was brought in the name of his wife, who was appointed to administer on the estate. Now a new administrator will have to be appointed. Tom Moore's children are his heirs.

UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT FOR 23 MIDSHIPMEN

Annapolis, Md., May 20.—Punishment of a rather unusual nature was today meted out to twenty-three members of the third-class at the naval academy. The youths had joined in a petition to the secretary of commerce asking him to intercede in a case of a classmate who had been found deficient in his conduct grades.

As their action was in violation of naval regulations, the offender a instead of enjoying the usual shore liberty during the summer cruise are to undergo special instruction in the regulations. When they return to the academy after the cruise they are to be denied the usual summer vacation and will have to pass an examintion in the subjects they have been studying on during the cruise.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels in referring the matter to Superintendent Gibbons for action, severely censured the young men.

ROADS OF THOMAS ARE MUCH IMPROVED

Thomasville, Ga., May 20.—(Special.) The weather this spring has been fine for road work in this section and the gangs have been putting the highways of the county in good condition. The work on the road to Coolidge towards Moultrie has been completed, and the new iron and concrete bridges installed over the watercourses. The commissioners will now take up work on the road between Thomasville and Monticello, Fla., an important feature of which will be the bridging of Olive creek, which, during wet seasons, gets very much out of its banks and is a great drawback to those using that highway. Chairman Pringle is very much interested in having all of the roads in Thomas county in the good roads class, and work on them will be pushed during the coming months.

PROBE BEING DRIVEN INTO TAXICAB GRAFT

New York, May 20.—With the so-called taxicab graft situation under investigation by the grand jury, the board of aldermen's special taxicab committee today submitted a report recommending lower rates for the public and the abolishing of private taxicab stands in public places.

This report has been delayed some fifteen months.

The jury is inquiring to learn whether financial consideration granted by taxicab companies was responsible in any way for the delay. City officials and police inspectors and captains are alleged to have profited through the use of free taxicab passes.

If the board adopts the committee's recommendations, as is said to be likely, Mayor Gaynor will have authority to establish public stands. The companies have been paying upwards of $250,000 yearly for stand privileges, according to the committee's report.

It is expected the inquiry will be temporarily suspended tomorrow and several indictments returned next week.

HEIRLOOM RECOVERED BY MISS LULA BOYKIN

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(Special.)—The recovery of a prized bracelet, which was a heirloom, and a college fraternity ring which she lost in Washington last December, greatly delighted Miss Lula Boykin, of Carrollton today, when these articles were returned to her through Representative Adamson.

The lost trinkets were traced to a pawn shop after Miss Boykin had been called home suddenly by the illness of her father, Samuel H. Boykin. The police desired to keep the jewels as evidence, believing they had been stolen, and they were only turned over to Representative Adamson a day or two ago.

The Cassin Is Launched.

Bath, Maine, May 20.—The United States torpedo boat destroyer Cassin a 1,000-ton ship, took her maiden dip today. The Cassin is a sister ship of the Cumming, which will go overboard early in July. Her contract price was $761,500, and a maximum speed of 30 knots an hour will be required at the official trials next month. The destroyer will burn oil exclusively.

PYTHIANS TO CONVENE TODAY IN WAYCROSS

Crowds of Delegates From All Over State Have Reached South Georgia City.

Waycross, Ga., May 20.—(Special.)—Tomorrow the annual convention of the Knights of Pythias of Georgia will convene in Waycross, to continue through Thursday. Elaborate preparations have been made for the reception of the hundreds of visitors who will be here for the big gathering and special attention has been paid to the entertainment features.

Tonight over half of the delegates are in the city, arriving on the afternoon trains from all parts of the state. Special trains from Savannah and Atlanta will arrive during the night with several hundred delegates, and by morning all of those who will participate in the convention will be in Waycross.

New Hotel Opens.

On account of the convention the partially completed Phoenix hotel was opened today. All hotels have reservations that take all available rooms and many private homes have been thrown open to the Knights.

It is reported that there will be two interesting contests in the election of officers. Grand Keeper of Records and Seal eLopold, of Savannah, may be one of the two officers with opposition, as it is reported that the Atlanta and other north Georgia delegates will support some other man for the place. J. Lee Crawley, of Waycross, will be one of the candidates for grand outer guard, and his friends predict his election with ease.

Public exercises at the Grand theater will feature the opening of the convention tomorrow. These exercises will begin at 10 o'clock. On behalf of the city, Mayor Harry D. Reed will deliver a welcome address, the response to be delivered by Hon. James W. Austin, grand chancellor, of Atlanta. An address of welcome on behalf of the local Pythians will be delivered by J. Lee Crawley, pat chancellor, and the response to this will be by Hon. Miller R. Bell, of Milledgeville, grand vice chancellor. After the opening exercises the delegates will be escorted to the courthouse, where the sessions of the convention will be held. At 11 o'clock the official photographer, M. J. Dolan, will take a photo of the delegates, after which the first session will open and last until 1 o'clock. The Pythian Sisters, who hold their sixth annual convention here at the same time as the Knights hold their convention, will be guests at this barbecue also, and a great time is anticipated.

CRISP COUNTY COTTON INJURED BY DROUTH

Cordele, Ga., May 20.—(Special.)—Farming conditions in Crisp county just at this time are not so promising. A drouth that has continued in the greater portion of the county since planting time has prevented much of the cotton from coming up, and the stand is not very good in any part of the county. It is estimated that the cotton crop for this year has already been damaged between 10 and 15 per cent by the drouth. Corn and other crops have also been stunted by the dry spell.

Taken Back to Gang.

Thomasville, Ga., May 20.—(Special.) Officers from Berrien county came to Thomasville yesterday and carried back C. R. Hodges, a convict who escaped from the Berrien county gang a little more than a year ago. Hodges attained noteriety here about two years ago by forging a note for $600 on the Citizens' bank of this city, a note for which he was convicted and sent up for seven years. He was sent from here to the Berrien county gang, but only remained there a short time before making his escape.

C. S. A. SURGEONS URGED TO ATTEND REUNION

At the request of Dr. A. A. Lyon, of Nahville, Tenn., secretary of the Association of Confederate Surgeons, Dr. Edwin D. Newton, the local secretary, is sending out an urgent call to all confederate surgeons, assistant surgeons, hospital stewards and all sons of confederate surgeons to attend the annual meeting of the medical officers of the confederate army and navy, to be held at Chattanooga, on May 27, 28 and 29, of next week, when the general reunion of confederates is in progress in that city. Inasmuch as the association was first organized in Atlanta in 1874 and reorganized here in 1898, it is specially desired that this city be well represented.

By years of patinet labor there have been dug up in note books and in the memory of survivors a great part of the information which was contained in the records of the surgeons-general of the confederacy which were burned at the taking of Richmond in 1865. These are contained in thirty-two volumes of The Southern Practitioner, the official journal of the confederate surgeons, which have been furnished with suitable binding through the courtesy of the state librarian, Mrs. Cobb, and will be placed at the service of the medical fraternity.

NOW WALKS MOST ANYWHERE

But for Fifteen Long Years Mrs. Dickson Could Not Stand on Her Feet for Any Length of Time.

Dallas, Tex.—"I cannot recommend Cardui, the woman's tonic, too highly," writes Mrs. R. J. Dickson, of 2907 Bryan Street, this city. "It is the greatest boon to those suffering from womanly trouble, in existence.

For 15 years I was a sufferer from such severe pains, caused from womanly trouble, I could not walk, or even stand on my feet, long at a time. I also had backaches and headaches. I commenced taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and now I can walk anywhere I want to, do my own work, and feel better than I have for ten years.

I am so thankful that I took your medicine, as I feel like a new woman entirely.

My advice to all women is to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, when they feel the need a tonic, as it will certainly do for them what it has done for me."

Cardui goes to the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It is for the weak, tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as though everything were wrong, and who need something to quiet their restless nerves, and strengthen their worn-out systems.

Thousands of women now enjoy good health as a result of taking Cardui. Why not you? Try it. At all druggists.

Superfluous Hair Truths

Stop Experimenting

If you use a simple toilet preparation and if proves to be worthless, you only lose money. When you use a questionable depilatory, however, it is a very serious matter because you not only lose money, but you take the grave risk of permanent disfigurement.

If You Value Your Face

use De Miracle, the one safe, perfected hair remover of proven merit. Remember, the injury caused by the use of doubtful hair removers will either result in permanent disfigurement or cost you many dollars because it will take months or possibly years to gain control of hair growths which have been stimulated by the use of such preparations.

De Miracle

Only Real Hair Remover on Earth

De Miracle contains certain ingredients which give it the power to rob hair of its vitality. Therefore, you must eventually use it to retard and gain control of growths which have been caused by the unwise use of questionable depilatories. Is it not safer and wiser to begin using De Miracle now, before the growth gets beyond control?

Leaves No Tell-Tale Smell

*If you use De Miracle it will be im*possible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor, an offensive tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours. If your dealer will not supply you with De Miracle, send $1.00 direct.

"Nature's Gift from the Sunny South"

DO YOU know the difference between Cottolene and lard? Cottolene is a vegetable product; lard is an animal product. Cottolene is made from purest and choicest cotton oil, a product of Nature.

Lard-cooked foods tend to heat the system unduly, and cause discomfort and indigestion; Cottolene makes food rich but never greasy, and food which any stomach can digest with ease.

Cottolene

The better class of housewives often use butter instead of lard for cooking purposes. It's a mighty expensive and needless habit. Cottolene is every bit as good as butter for shortening; it is better than butter for frying. And Cottolene costs much less than butter.

Cottolene will not burn nearly as easily as butter or lard, and with its use the strong, irritating and indigestible acids found in foods fried in animal fats are avoided.

Two-thirds of a pound of Cottolene will go as far as a full pound of butter or lard.

Just think these facts over and let them sink in. Then order a pail of Cottolene of your grocer.

Today's Beauty Recipes

By Mme. D'Mille.

"A woman feels like crying when she finds her comb full of hair. Falling hair, and faded, dull and brittle hair means that the scalp is harboring a parasite that destroys hair. Mother's Shampoo removes these parasites and puts the scalp in clean, wholesome and healthy condition, so that the hair will grow luxuriantly.

"Delatone is so popular as a superfluous hair remover because its use does not discolor or roughen the skin. To remove hair on the face or forearms cover the surface for a minute or two with a little paste made by dissolving delatone and water. When the paste is removed the hairs will be gone.

"Headaches, pains in back or joints, rheumatism, sore muscles and other aches yield to Mother's Salve, which penetrates the pores and relieves almost instantly.

"Every woman is responsible for her complexion, and a good complexion is woman's greatest charm. To correct facial blemishes, remove muddy spots and make the skin fresh, fair and lovely, gently massage the face, neck and arms each morning with a lotion made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel."

WASHINGTON WAITING TO HEAR FROM TOKIO

Probable That California Law Will Be Tested in United States Court.

Washington, May 20.—Interest in negotiations between the United States and Japan over the California land legislation has shifted from Washington to Tokio. The American government, having delivered its reply to the Japanese protest, is awaiting the next step of Japan, and the situation was not even mentioned at today's cabinet meeting.

In official circles it is regarded as significant of the desire of the administration to convince the Japanese government of its purpose to do everything possible to maintain the best of relations, that American Charge Bailly Blanchard has called upon the foreign minister at Tokio to assure him of the determination of the United States to find a friendly and satisfactory solution of the issue. Secretary Bryan already had verbally given such assurance to Viscount Chinda.

It is believed here that the visit to California of the Japanese statesmen, Ishara and Hatleri, representing both of the great political parties of Japan, will be of benefit, as they will be able to enlighten their people at home as to conditions in California.

It is understood that the state department is looking to the Japanese government, or some Japanese citizen, to test the new law by recourse to the United States courts. It may be significant of the drawing of another issue that the Japanese are believed to be reluctant to begin such a movement.

In his protest of May 9 to the state department, the Japanese ambassador is understood to have made it perfectly clear that Japan, finding it impossible to deal directly with the state of California, was relying entirely upon the federal government to insure what he believes to be fair treatment for its subjects. Probably that contention will be extended to cover the legal test of the California land law, though the ordinary process in such cases would be for a Japanese subject, threatened with escheatment of his lands, to begin action by application for an injunction.

Representative Bartholdt, of Missouri, announced today that he purposed to introduce next Friday a resolution to empower congress to legislate exclusively on all questions affecting the rights of aliens residing in the United States.

The purpose of the measure would be to prevent individual states from passing laws which might cause friction with foreign countries. Lack of federal control, he said, affects the ability of the government to carry out a treaty in all its integrity, was a palpable defect.

Japan Trying to Quiet Public.

Tokio, May 20.—News that the California alien land ownership bill had been signed by Governor Johnson was received here with regret, although it had been discounted in official and non-official circles.

Efforts of the Japanese government are concentrated at present in pacifying public opinion, but the task is regarded in many quarters as a more difficult one than at the time of the California school controversy, or even a year ago.

Since the death of the old Japanese emperor the authority of the government has steadily diminished in resisting the growing influence of public opinion, and the spirit of the democracy is augmenting throughout the empire.

It is generally believed here that Washington will find a solution of the problem, but the more conservative elements in Japan are now echoing the public agitation for equal treatment of the Japanese. They declare that the racial issue which it is contended is involved and the steady recurrence of anti-Japanese bills in California should receive "basic curative treatment."

A prominent official said today:

"The Japanese people feel that their national honor is involved. The present question will be solved peacefully, but what is needed to assure the permanence of our traditional friendship is a change of heart in some Americans toward the Japanese."

munity near Marietta, a letter advising the chief to send a detective to see him, as he could show them to a girl who was acquainted with the mysterious girl in red who is said to have accompanied Mary Phagan to the pencil factory.

Detectives Starnes and Campbell visited him, but upon the trip to find the girl, failed to locate her. It is rumored in Kennesaw that this girl has made a public statement to the effect that she knows the girl for whom a veritable army of detectives has searched for three weeks.

Harry Scott, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton offices in Atlanta, issued a statement Tuesday in reply to the assertion of Chief Tobie, of the Burns agency, that a number of phases of the mystery had been overlooked by the local investigators.

"We have overlooked nothing," he said. "We have worked upon the case from a thousand different angles, and are continuing to do so as the investigation progresses daily. We have been successful to a surprising extent, and when our hands are revealed, the public will readily be convinced of that fact."

Detective John Black, of police headquarters, said:

"The police detectives have covered the case thoroughly. They have unearthed evidence which will merit conviction. We can fix the guilt, and we have overlooked nothing. We have run to earth countless thousands of rumors, idle and substantial, and we have worked systematically and energetically."

Coaster Brake Trust Quits.

Y., will be dissolved without a fight in the courts to meet the demands of Attorney General McReynolds, and the pending criminal cases against the combination and its officers will be settled in the near future, it is expected, by an agreement which practically has been concluded between the government and the interests involved.

$22,083 for State Sanitarium.

On the governor's warrant, the state treasurer yesterday mailed a check for $22,083.33 to the superintendent of the state insane sanitarium at Milledgeville. At the same time a check for $2,000 was drawn in favor of Joseph A. McCord, treasurer of the state tuberculosis sanitarium.

After his inauguration President Menocal received the American special mission composed of the third assistant secretary of state, Dudley Field Malone, Brigadier General Enoch H. Crowder, judge advocate-general of the army, and Edward Bell, of the Latin-American division of the state department, acting as secretary, and the members of the American legation.

The American minister, Arthur M. Beaupre, officiating as chief of the mission congratulated President Menocal in behalf of President Wilson. Secretary Malone read a message of felicitation from the president of the United States, at which President Menocal responded in terms of the highest appreciation for the good wishes extended to himself and the Cuban people.

President Menocal, on taking office, contents himself with the declaration that he will devote all his energies to giving the country a clean business administration which will foster the industries of the island and develop its splendid resources, which will welcome foreign capital and immigration and maintain friendly relations with all nations, and especially with the United States, to which Cuba is so closely linked by bonds of mutual affection and interest.

Wilson to Menocal.

Washington, May 20.—A cordial message of congratulation and good wishes from President Wilson and the American government was carried to President Menocal by the special mission representing the United States at the inauguration of the Cuban executive today.

In felicitating the new executive upon the orderly and peaceful transfer of power from one party to another, the address of the mission laid stress upon the intention of the United States to support "firm and just government against all elements of disorder," and reiterated President Wilson's declaration of policy toward all American nations. The address said in part:

"The United States has nothing to seek in Cuba except the lasting interest of the people, the security of popular government and the development of such personal and commercial relations between Cuba and the United States as will redound to the profit and advantage of both and interfere with the rights and liberties of neither."

EXEMPTION OF LABOR BITTERLY DENOUNCED

Manufacturers Urge Wilson to Veto the Sundry Civil Bill Unions Attacked.

Detroit, May 20.—Practically all of today's sessions of the convention of the National Manufacturers' association was taken up with discussion of labor organizations and the labor situation. The discussion culminated this afternoon in sending to President Wilson resolutions protesting against the sundry civil appropriation bill and urging the chief executive to veto it because of the provision against using funds for prosecution of labor organizations under the Sherman act.

The resolutions were in part as follows:

"The moral effect of the provision preventing the use of public funds specifically appropriated to enforce the Sherman act, for the prosecution of labor and agricultural combinations violating that statute, is to condone the acts which the law has condemned and to make the participants in strikes, boycotts and all forms of labor disturbances believe that they are justified in acts of lawlessness when done in furtherance of a trade dispute.

"It implicitly pledges the administration to similar changes in the substantive law which would approve and validate the most vicious forms of the secondary boycott in interstate commerce, including compulsory discharge of non-union men as a means of compelling the acceptance of the demand by the boycotting combination.

"Making it unlawful and right for one class of citizens to do that which would remain criminal and wrong when done by another class, insults the law-abiding members of the accepted class, offends the moral sense of our people and under the decisions of our courts, would be likely to in*validate the act and thus further the* sinister designs of those who would destroy the statute itself."

A large part of the secretary's report was devoted to the so-called "embargo placed on 'free labor' by promoters of the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco."

Delegates did not conceal the fact that they view the policy of the exposition managers to employ none but union labor with disfavor. Several of the members of the association announced they will not exhibit unless the exposition is opened to "free labor."

In his address President Kirby bitterly attacked organized labor and closed shops. He also attacked members of congress for alleged subserviency to the labor trust.

is the World's standard silk glove—all other silk gloves are measured by the "KAYSER" standard.

The development of the "KAYSER" Silk Glove represents the attainment of an ideal, the achievement of which has not been hampered by restrictions of cost or time, nor influenced by a passing demand for features most aptly characterized as "talking points."

We could not afford to buy expensive advertising space "year after year," to tell the women of America that "KAYSER" Gloves are the best—in style, fit and finish—if it were not true.

"KAYSER" gloves "cost no more" than the ordinary kind—and are worth double in quality, fit and value.

Don't accept the "just as good" kind, there's a way to tell the genuine—"Look in the Hem"—if you find the name "KAYSER"—you have the kind that "don't wear out" at the finger ends.

CAPITOL GOSSIP

Captain "Tip" Jubilant.

There was no more enthusiastic man among the state officials at the capitol yesterday than was Captain "Tip" Harrison. H ewas just brimming over with good feeling to all the world, even the yankees. It was all because of the good things he had heard at the informal love feast of the Blue and Gray Monday evening when veterants of both armies now in attendance on the Presbyterian assemblies were invited to meet with the Atlanta Camp No. 159, U. C. V., at their regular monthly meeting.

Captain "Tip" said:

"I have never heard a fine ritribute paid to the Christian character of our southern generals than was paid them by the Rev. Mr. Jones, chaplain of the G. A. R. camp at Baltimore. He extolled in eloquent terms the splendid piety and moral manhood of Lee and Jackson and Gordon and Leonidas Polk. In this respect, the north had no teachers to compare with those of the south."

Another thing that pleased Captain "Tip" immensely was the enthusiastic way in which the northern visitors received the proposal made by Judge George Hillyer that the United States take care of the ex-slave and relieve the white people of the south of the burden of them.

"We have to take care of the old darkies because we will not let them starve, and the young generation of negroes, neither can nor will," said Captain Harrison, and I think it is nothing but fair that those who gave them their freedom, thus depriving them of the protection of those who would have cared for their old age, should have to take care of them now."

May Not Indorse Paper.

Unless it is specifically empowered to do so in its charter, no corporation may make an accommodation indorsement of commercial paper. Such is the decision of the court of appeals in the case of the Savannah Ice company v. Canal Louisiana Bank and Trust company, et al., which was handed down by the court yesterday. The Savannah Ice company, which had been the defendant in the city court of Savannah below had indorsed paper for the Crescent Ice company, of New Orleans, for $6,000. The court held that no corporation, whether public or private, organized under the laws of the state of Georgia, can, in the absence of express authority in its charter, lend its credit for the mere accommodation of third persons.

LIFE INSURANCE MEN MAKE STRONG PROTEST

Alleged Income Tax Provision Will Double Tax Policyholders of Mutual Companies.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 20.—(Special.)—Representatives of the big mutual insurance companies are protesting against the income tax provision of the Underwood bill, which they contend is aimed at their policyholders.

Senator Williams, of Mississippi, chairman of the subcommittee of the finance committee now considering this section of the tariff bill, has heard a great number of insurance men. They ask:

First. That the big mutual companies be placed on the same basis as the fraternal insurance societies.

Second. That their payments to agents be deducted in figuring net income subject to tax.

Third. That they be relieved from the extra bookkeeping expense and trouble incident to collecting the income tax at the source of the income.

"We don't want to inflict double taxation," said Senator Williams, "as they claim the bill as drawn will do; but when the big mutual companies say that all their excess earnings go back to the stockholders in the form of dividends, I am reminded of one such campany that made a $50,000 contribution to the republican campaign fund."

Among the insurance men here are Hugh S. Willet, of Atlanta, and Captain Julian Schley, of Savannah.

CORKER TAKES STAND AGAINST TARIFF BILL

Well-Known Dublin Man Indorses Judge Hart in Fight on Cotton Schedule.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—(Special.)—Senator A. O. Bacon has received from F. G. Corker, president of the First National bank of Dublin, Ga., a strong protest against the cotton schedule of the house tariff bill Mr. Corker, who is one of the most prominent business men in Georgia, endorses the position of Judge John C. Hart, in opposition to the passage of the tariff bill in its present shape, saying:

"I feel quite sure from your long legislative experience, your distinguished service, and your study of these questions that you are equipped to form correct conclusions and I certainly have great faith in your patriotism. It seems to me the part of wisdom and the dictates of prudence to revise the tariff gradually so that the country can gradually become accustomed to changed economic conditions without a violent readjustment. If Judge Hart is anywhere near right in regard to the cotton schedules, then it seems to me that each southern representative and senator should see to it that these reductions that are too radical at this time are corrected. From my information, Judge Hart is especially well fitted to form correct conclusions in this matter. He is a very intelligent business man and certainly one of our most patriotic citizens. The same argument applies to the whole country in other features of the tariff bill, of course, because we are one people and what injures one section now injures another section also.

"It is true that the regular republicans and the Roosevelt wing of the republican party united would have constituted a large majority over the democratic party in the last election. It is also true that both these wings stand for the policy of protection under which this country, the south included, has enjoyed the most marvelous prosperity in the history of the world and nothing is more certain than that if business depression follows the passage of this democratic tariff bill, no democrat of this generation will live to see the democratic party returned to power. If a moderate re-adjustment is a good thing for the country now, and most of us think that it is, permitting of course no nation to have the benefit of these reductions without reciprocal concessions, then in a few years the country will be ready for another moderate reduction without shock or disaster. It seems that these conclusions are obvious and that this policy is both wise and patriotic.

"I am not interested as a stockholder in any cotton mill, but it is certain that any result which adversely affects cotton, either in marketing the raw or finished product, affects at once and affects most vitally every southern business interest."

JUDGE GEORGE OPPOSES CHANGES IN GRAND JURY

Cordele, Ga., May 20.—(Special.)—In his charge to the Crisp county grand jury upon the convening of the May term of the superior court this morning, Judge W. F. George stated that it had been agitated from certain quarters of the state, and some of the newspapers had taken up the question, that the plan be put in operation for grand juries to take evidence from both sides before returning an indictment in a case. Declaring that there could be no basic reason for such a plan, and that he was surprised at the source from which it sprung, Judge George vigorously attacked the idea. He asserted that the grand jury was not a trial jury, and that he did not approve of making it such. It was the duty of a grand jury to determine if there was sufficient grounds for indictment, and not the guilt of a person, and it should ever be this, declared Judge George.

CHRISTIAN MINISTERS HERE IN ANNUAL MEET

Georgia Convention Comes in Heralded Because of Presbyterians Occupying City.

Ministers of the Christian churches of all parts of Georgia are in Atlanta for their annual convention, which is being held at the First Christian church, corner Pryor and Trinity. All day Tuesday the preachers were in session there, while the opening of the convention took place Monday night with an address by the state president, Rev. H. T. Gree, of Augusta.

So busied was the city of Atlanta with its hosts of Presbyterians who are here for the assemblies, that the coming of the Christian ministers was completely unnoticed until their convention was running full fledged.

Tuesday afternoon a series of splendid and profitable addresses was heard by the convention. Rev. John Roberts, of Dublin; Rev. L. M. Omer, of West Point; Rev. E. A. Osborne, of Griffin; Rev. T. G. Linkous, of East Point; Rev. A. R. Moore, of Savannah, [illegible] were among those who made addresses. President S. T. Give occupied the chair.

To attend the joint Presbyterian gathering at the Auditorium-Armory, the ministers adjourned their session late Tuesday afternoon, and no night session will be held on Wednesday for the same reason. The program for Wednesday will be as follows:

Mrs. Olive Maria Healey Dies at Ivy Street Home

Mrs. Olive Maria Healey, widow of the late Thomas G. Healey, of Atlanta, and mother of William H. Healey, died yesterday evening at 7:30 o'clock at her residence on the corner of Ivy street and Auburn avenue.

She was 89 years of age, having lived in Atlanta since her girlhood days, when she came here from Connecticut, her native state, to make her home with her brother, the late William Markham, who was one of Atlanta's distinguished citizens.

Mrs. Healey represented the best New England stock, her forebears men who contributed to the upbuilding of the colonies, and later rendering valiant service in the revolution.

Though born in New England, she became loyal to the sentiments and traditions of the home of her adoption, and her name appears with those of the other good women of Georgia who bravely took up the struggle after the war to help build the churches, the hospitals, the schools, and who were the splendid home-makers who have given Atlanta her name for hospitality.

Mrs. Healey was a woman of strong [illegible] and broad culture. Her knowledge of history especially distinguished her, and until within a few days of her death she was a constant reader of history and the classics.

Several years ago she accompanied her son, William Healey, to the anniversary exercises of his class at Princeton, and attended all the ceremonies and entertainments of that occasion, describing them to her friends afterwards with the greatest interest and pleasure. She was a member of the Pioneer Women's society and of the "Butterflies," the latter organization composed of a group of Atlanta ladies all of them over seventy-five years of age. Until the last few months Mrs. Healey had attended the meetings of these organizations, and contributed to their informal programs reminiscences rich in historic interest, and charming with wit and humor which were among the social graces of this refined and lovely lady of the old school.

Mrs. Healey had been in feeble health for some months, but had been seriously ill for only two weeks, heart trouble being the direct cause of her death. Beside her son, William Helley, and his wife and her grandsons, Masters William and Oliver Healey, Mrs. Healey is survived by her niece, Mrs. Robery J. Lowry, and a nephew, Napoleon Markham.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church.

AT THE THEATERS

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

There are so many regular features on the bill at the Forsyth this week that in selecting a star act it is nearly up to the audience to do the choosing. If you measure by laughter and then again by applause, and add in the attention that is given the several acts, it would be only fair to say that every act is registering a hit. As a matter of fact, starting right after the overture, the fun commences, and never lets up until Adam, who is hanging on to one of the drop curtains, has some fun himself riding up and down in the curtain as it is lowered and lifted for the trainer of the wonderful monk to take his bows.

Frank Vance Hurt.

Frank C. Vance, of 107 Postell street, who was severely injured in a wreck in the Southern railway yards in Chattanooga a month ago, reached home yesterday, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. C. H. D. Vance. Frank Vance had just started his railroad work, and was hurt at the end of his first trip, shortly after his train reached Chattanooga. His left foot was so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.

"The Deep Purple."

After the matinee today seats will be sold for next week, when St. Elmo, voted best by the audiences, will be given by Miss Long and her associates.

WHIFFS

The S. I. A. A. Muddle.

NO COLLEGE in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association has a clean-cut claim to the baseball championship, and no team's claim is better than any other. There are three teams whose claims are better than any others, but between them there is little to chose. Georgia only lost to Tech, defeating every one else. Alabama only lost to Georgia defeating every one else and Clemson only lost to Tech defeating every one else. This would make Tech look pretty good apparently, but defeats by Mercer, Auburn and Alabama eliminate her. Auburn is eliminated by defeats by Clemson and Georgia; Mercer by defeats by Auburn and Alabama, Sewanee and Vanderbilt by many defeats. If Alabama defeats Vanderbilt this week, however, she will have on a percentage basis a better claim than any other team, but the defeats by Georgia prohibits any real claim to the title.

Practically Ready.

THE MOTORDROME of Jack Prince is practically ready for a race. Very little work has to be done to have everything in tip-top shape for a meet. The track itself and the seating arrangement has been completed. Only some minor details have to be shaped up to have the big track ready for the buzz of the high-powered machines.

Time Is Set.

ALL GAMES at Ponce de Leon for the rest of the season will begin promptly at 3:45 o'clock, Manager Smith having reached this decision after quizzing over the matter thoroughly Tuesday. Some wanted the games to start at 3 o'clock, others at 4. He split the difference so as to try to satisfy both sides.

Will Stand Pat

BILL SMITH will stand pat with the present personnel of the Crackers for the entire home stay. His outfield and infield could not be improved upon, his catchers are working steadily and consistently and the pitchers are beginning to strike their real stride once more. The present home stay ought to be a profitable one from a percentage standpoint, not to mention financially.

Greatest Ever.

AN OLD-TIME fan who witnessed his first ball game of the season Monday afternoon went into raptures over the playing of Wallie Smith. "I've seen them all," he said, "and this fellow handles a ground ball better than the best. He has the best pair of hands on a hard-hit ball of any third sacker I ever saw. I am of the opinion of all the Atlanta fans. How he ever got out of the big leagues is a mystery.

Doff Your Kellys.

CAP WHITEY is having the best season of his entire career. He looks better around that keystone and is pulling more sensational plays every day than any second sacker the Crackers have had in a long while. As for his hitting ability; it is useless to comment on that. He's the best pinch hitter in the entire league—nuf sed.

Exaggerated.

JACK COOMBS, the Philadelphia Athletics' Iron Man, is not out of the pastime for the season. Dr. Malcolm MacFarlane, his physician, announces that Coombs is suffering from a complication of diseases, but that his fine physique will pull him through.

Cracker Bats Vie With Rain In Routing Turtles Tuesday; Chappelle Hurls Great Game

By Dick Jemison.

In a bob-tailed session, the Crackers made it two straights from the Memphis Turtles Tuesday afternoon by capturing the Ladies' day engagement 11 to 0.

Rain interrupted the fracas in the third inning, stopped it again at the end of the fifth, and ended it for all time at the close of the first half of the sixth.

It rained something else beside water. It rained Cracker bingles, eleven safe drives being registered during the five tries at the bat, and there would have been more had the Crackers half tried.

Clap in Form.

"Chappie" Chappelle was in excellent form. For five innings he held the visitors to no runs and not a single bingle were they able to get away from the waiting paws of some member of his support.

The two lone Turtle bingles came in the sixth chapter after Chappie had sat on the bench and gotten cold. But as soon as he warmed up to his work he retired the Turtles just as quickly as in the earlier innings, retiring the next three men after the first two had singled.

Chappelle looks like he is going to be a valuable acquisition to the Crackers' hurling corps. His rounding into fine form makes the staff look better than ever, and the weather is fast being rubbed out of Bill Smith's brow now.

Cap Whitey had three bingles in four attempts, two of them for two cushions, and Bisland kicked in with a single and triple, both of which drove in counters.

How They Scored.

Long opened the fray by drawing a free ticket from Kroh. Bailey sent him to second with a neat sacrifice, Whitey smashed one to left for two cushions, counting Long and, by some great sprinting, came all the way home when Schweitzer let the pellet get away from him.

Smith worked Kroh for another free ticket, and Bisland poked the three-bagger to deep left for three cushions, scoring Wallon. He was out trying to score on a passed ball.

Alpermann opened the third with a smash through Ward for a base. This unloosed the heavens, and it poured for about ten minutes. After the rain ceased, Bill Smith personally superintended the renovation of the grounds, and did as much work as the groundkeeper and the four drinks combined.

Play Resumes.

When play was resumed, Welchonce laid down a beautiful bunt and, as slow as it was, legged it to first ahead of the throw. Wallop sacrificed them both up a base, and Bisland combed a beauty to center, scoring both.

The real picking of Kroh happened in the fifth, and when the Crackers got through with him they had picked him clean.

Alpermann opened the inning with a two-ply smash to right. Welchonce duplicated his great bunt, legging it to first ahead of the throw again. Bisland walked, filling the bases. Agler hit to Kroh, who lost his head, then threw fiercely to Seabough, causing him to drop the ball, Alpermann scoring.

Joe Dunn kicked in with a wallop to another, scoring two. Chapelle followed with one, sending Agler home and Dunn to third. Long kept up the good work, scoring Dunn, and Bailey beat out a bunt, filling the bases again. Chappelle counted the final run of the pastime on Alpermann's infield out.

Elliott Dent, the Crackers' new right-hander, will make his debut this afternoon, as special attraction for the Ad Men. Harrell will probably oppose him.

More kept the hits* well scattered, and was never in danger until the ninth, when Wares' single and Sloan's double put men to second and third with two out. LIPTON CHALLENGE FINALLY ACCEPTED

London, May 20.—The New York Yacht club today cabled to the Royal Ulster Yacht club definitely accepting Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America's cup.

The races will take place in September, 1914, under the New York Yacht club's present rules as to measurement, time allowance and racing rules.

London, May 20.—Sir Thomas considers that the conditions of acceptance of his challenge by the New York Yacht club are a great victory for him. He says they will enable him to build a good sea-worthy boat.

It is still a question whether Sir Thomas will be allowed to tow his yacht across the Atlantic.

It is not whether they thought the defenders would meet him with a bigger boat than the challenger, Sir Thomas replied:

"That does not give me the least worry. They have always treated me in the most generous and sportsman-like spirit."

The New York Yacht club's acceptance of the challenge says:

"The races are to be sailed as you suggested, under our present rules of measurement, time allowance and racing rules, it being understood that the rule requiring a yacht to rate at the highest limit of her class in certain cases shall not apply to this match."

This will be the third game of the series, Formwalt winning the first game of the series and Edgewood the second.

Interest in the game this afternoon is at fever heat, and the rooters of both schools and the other north and south side schools will be on hand to root for their teams.

GOLF CHAMPION AND TROPHY HE WILL CONTEST FOR TODAY

The metropolitan golf championship begins at New York today, with a record entry list. Jerome Travers is the present title holder. He is also the present national amateur golf champion. He rules the favorite in the event.

Formwalt and Edgewood Will Settle Public School Championship Today

The public school baseball championship of Atlanta will be settled this afternoon on the Marist college grounds at 3:30 o'clock.

Formwalt school, the pennant winners on the south side, and Edgewood school, the pennant winners on the north side, will be the contestants.

Baumgardner got three singles and walked once. Krebs was fined $5 and put out of the game for disputing with the umpire on Prysock's home run.

Macon had the score tied twice, but lost to Columbus by 3 to 2. Martin and McCormick were the main figures in the pitchers' battle. The latter walking men at the wrong time

Big Crowd Expected Today; Wilmer Moore Will Pitch First Ball at Ad Men's Game

Marist College Band Will Lead Parade and Furnish Music During the Session—Elliott Dent, the New Cracker Twirler, Will Make His Debut on This Occasion.

One of the greatest, if not the greatest crowd of the local baseball season, will attend the final game between the Crackers and the Turtles this afternoon at Ponce de Leon park, and Elliott Dent, the Cracker's new hurler, will make his debut.

The game is being played for the benefit of the Atlanta Ad Men to help defray their expenses to the national convention, which will be held in Baltimore next month.

President Wilmer L. Moore, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, has agreed to throw the first ball, and the Marist college band will furnish the music.

The local boosters have taken charge of the game this afternoon and have been working like beavers for a week to get out a big crowd. The advance sale of seats denotes a large attendance.

The local club has donated the park and the game to the Ad Men this afternoon, and all the proceeds after the necessary expenses and the guarantee of the visiting club has been deducted will go to the Ad Men.

These boosters did a lot of good work in securing the opening day attendance trophy for Atlanta, and the local club is co-operating with them in the game today as an appreciation of their efforts on that occasion.

At Baltimore the local club will boost Atlanta to all the visiting Ad Men. When these fellows start boosting they never know when to quit, and it is up to the fandom to give them a good send off and show that they appreciate all they are doing to boost the city by attending this afternoon's game in large numbers.

The Ad Men will attend the game in a body in the big auto trucks that they used to attend the opening game of the season with the Barons, and with nice weather, it is estimated that the crowd that will attend the pastime will come close to the one that was on hand opening day.

Mayor Woodward has agreed to close the city hall at 2 o'clock and permit all the city employees to attend the game.

The local men have been working on the business men of the city, and they have secured the promises of quite a number of them to permit their men to attend the game.

It's a worthy cause and it is to be hoped that the crowd that attends will be a record-breaker for week days.

A big parade through the business center of the city will precede the game.

ST. ANDREW'S GOLF COURSE IN DANGER

Suffragettes Threaten to Destroy the Great Golf Course Just Before Championship Contest.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 20.—This little town is almost in a state of siege because of threats uttered by the militant suffragettes that they will destroy the putting greens and thus render play impossible in the world's amatuer golf championship, which is to be competed for here next week.

Intense excitement prevails among the townspeople, who depend largely for their prosperity upon the golf links, while members of the Royal and Ancient Golf club are extremely anxious. They and the citizens have organized a vigilance committee, whose members, together with 5,000 volunteers, will guard the greens night and day.

The general anxiety becomes keener every day, as it is thought that the militant suffragettes may refrain from delivering their attack until the last moment, when it will be impossible to repair the damage.

The River Tay routes, by which the links are reached from Dundee, a hotbed of suffragism, are closely guarded, and to make assurance doubly sure, a powerful searchlight has been mounted on the bridge, the light from which sweeps the links, the road and the river.

TECH HIGH WINS FROM MARIST 2-1

By Hal Reynolds.

In one of the best played games of the season Tech High defeated Marist yesterday afternoon at Marist by the score of 2 to 1.

The game went for 11½ innings with the score tied 1 to 1, but in the 12th McGrath weakened and Tech High sent over the winning tally on J. Park's single, a stolen base and a fielder's choice.

Both teams had a grand chance to cop the game. Marist had men on second and third and none down in the ninth, and Tech High had second and third occupied in the eighth and no one out, but each time Weston and McGrath tightened, allowing no runs.

Weston pitched star ball for Tech High, allowing only 6 hits in 12 innings, and making thirteen men fan the breeze. J. Parks led the hitters with two bingles.

McGrath pitched good ball for Marist, although he weakened slightly towards the last part of the game. He gave up but seven hits, which were widely scattered except in the last round, and fanned seven men. Cheves purloined three bases.

Marist was handicapped by the absence of her star pitcher, Callahan, and Outfielder Roberts.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Marist	010 000 000 000—1	6	1
Tech High	010 000 000 001—2	7	0

Summary: Two-base hit, Bedell; struck out, by Weston 13, by McGrath 7; bases on balls, off Weston 1, off McGrath 1; double play, J. Parks to Scott; stolen bases, Cheves 3, Bedell 2, Tull, Allen 2, J. Parks.

$2,000 WILL BE ASKED FOR OPEN AIR SCHOOL

For the third time on Wednesday, a committee representing the Atlanta Anti-Tuberculosis association will go before the finance committee of council to urge upon it the importance of making a small appropriation to establihs the first open-air school in Atlanta.

Last December the children of the public schools in Atlanta raised $1,000 toward this fund, by selling the red cross Christmas seals. This $1,000 is in the bank, set apart to be used for no other purpose except the establishment of an open-air school. The committee is asking the city council to add $2,000 to this fund, making a total of $3,000, with which to establish the first real open-air school in Atlanta.

It is proposed to establish this school somewhere in the neighborhood of Grant Park, or at some other convenient place, and to use it for the segregation and instruction of children who may be predisposed to tubercular troubles.

"GUNBOAT" SMITH WINS DECISION OVER WILLARD

Willard Had Weight, Height and Reach, But Smith's Punch Was Better.

San Francisco, May 20.—Fifty pounds advantage in weight, 6 inches in height and a reach like the arm of a derrick, could not win tonight for Jess Willard, from "Gunboat" Smith, who earned a referee's decision in the last round of a 20-round bout. The heavier punch of the more experienced and aggressive veteran counted for more in the result than the bulk and strength of his opponent.

Smith was a 10 to 7 favorite in the ringside betting. Willard, 6 feet 6 inches in height and weighing 230 pounds, towered above the conqueror of Bombardier Wells, whose height was given at 6 feet even and weight at 150 pounds.

The first round was uneventful, but toward the end of the second Smith landed fiercely with right and left to the jaw, and Willard spat blood as he went to his corner. The sailor took a long lead in the third, landing several hard swings to the jaw, and Willard appeared distressed. The round closed with the Kansan on the defensive.

Willard began playing for the gunner's stomach in the fourth round, rushing Smith to the ropes and varied his assault with a smash to the nose that brought blood. In the succeeding rounds he continued his spurt, at one time almost putting Smith through the ropes. Smith fought back savagely, but his blows were ill-timed. The sixth round was tame, the Kansan not following up his advantage.

There was much clinching in the seventh, and Referee Selig was kept busy separating the pair. Both slowed up perceptible, and not until the tenth round was fierce milling renewed. Smith then split the Kansan's ear with a right swing, and blood flowed in a stream from the wound. The advantage at this stage was with the gunner.

Smith pecked away at Willard's ear in the eleventh and the crowd jeered the giant who clinched repeatedly to avoid punishment. A left to the chin in the next period staggered Willard. Eazer for a knockout Smith rushed around the bigger man, landing frequently but seemingly with little steam behind his blows. In the thirteenth he hit Willard almost at will, the Kansan seemingly content to back away and cover as best he could.

Willard opened the fourteenth round with an unexpected onslaught that took Smith unaware and slamming the gunner against the ropes, drove a left to the jaw that dazed him. Smith fought back gamely and lasted out the round. His left eye was closed when he took his corner in the fifteenth, but in the next round he showed up stronger, holding the Kansan even.

Honors were even in the seventeenth and eighteenth, which were featured by heavy slugging. In the nineteenth Smith again opened Willard's ear, outfighting the giant at close range.

The gunner forced the fighting throughout the twentieth and when Referee Selig designated him as the winner at the end of the bout, the crowd cheered in approval.

JOE MANDOT BEATEN BY "BUD" ANDERSON

New Orleans Boy Knocked Out "On His Feet" in the Twelfth Round.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20.—Joe Mandot, of New Orleans, was knocked out in the twelfth round of his scheduled twenty-round fight here tonight with "Bud" Anderson, of Vancouver, Wash.

Mandot was not knocked down in the final round, but he was "out on his feet." He was clearly insensible. Referee Eyton, seeing the condition of the southerner, stopped the fight with Mandot staggering blindly about the ring and held up Anderson's hand in token of victory.

Each was inside the limit of 133 pounds. Mandot was a 10-to-8 favorite, with light betting.

Mandot was unable to land a blow in the first round. In the second, Anderson punished him severely with vicious rights to the body. Mandot stayed away from the hard-hitting northerner in the third, but managed to put several light blows to Anderson's face.

Mandot scored with a hard right to jaw as the bell rang.

In the fourth and fifth rounds Anderson played Mandot's own game, long range fighting, and more than held his own.

Mandot took the aggressive in the sixth and tried repeatedly to put Anderson away, but every intended knockout blow was cleverly evaded while Anderson found further opportunity to batter the southerner's ribs with rights.

In the tenth round Anderson rocked Mandot's head with a right and left and when the southerner went into a clinch, Anderson placed his right to the stomach with telling effect.

Anderson forced the fighting at the beginning of the twelfth and staggered Mandot with rights and lefts to the face and body. When a terrific right to the jaw made Mandot wilt, apparently helpless but still on his feet, Referee Eyton stopped the fight to save him from a knockout.

WOULD-BE LYNCHERS KEPT BACK BY PISTOLS

Hiawatha, Kas., May 20.—A mob of 200 persons from Falls City, Neb., tonight made a threatening demonstration at the jail here, where William Bellew, a negro, charged with attacking Mrs. Anna Kellar, of Falls City, is a prisoner. He was brought here for safe keeping.

After the crowd had promised that the negro would not be harmed, he was brought out on the jail steps that Mrs. Kellar might see him. When she identified him as her assailant the crowd closed in, but the sheriff and his assistants held the mob at bay with revolvers until Bellew could be taken back to his cell.

Late tonight the men on the streets were still in an angry mood, and an extra force of guards was on duty at the jail.

FIGHT PLANNED ON EVERY ITEM

G. O. P. Senators to Make Passage of Underwood Bill Difficult—Threats of Wage-Cutting Cause Sharp Talk.

Washington, May 20.—That republican senators plan to insist upon amendments to nearly every item in the Underwood tariff bill when it comes before the senate for general discussion, became evident today, when Senator Penrose, former chairman of the finance committee, declared that every member of the minority would have amendments to propose.

Senator Penrose told the senate he knew of no concerted effort to be made purposely to delay the passage of the bill, but said he was assured that the minority would offer many amendments to the schedules offered by the democrats. Senator Smoot also announced that the introduction of amendments would begin as soon as the bill came from committee, and that many roll calls would be demanded. If this plan is pursued systematically the journey of the bill through the senate is certain to be prolonged.

Senator Simmons has called for tomorrow the first meeting of the full membership of the finance committee to consider questions relating to the tariff. One matter to be determined will be the list of questions of the tariff to be sent to manufacturers throughout the country. Senators Simmons, Stone and Williams will submit a list for the committee's approval.

Threats to Cut Wages.

During debate today on the matter of making public the briefs filed by manufacturers with the finance subcommittees, Senator Townsend, of Michigan, engaged in a colloquy with Senator Simmons, relative to the alleged threats of manufacturers to reduce wages and the counter intention of the administration through the bureau of corporations to investigate concerns which might reduce wages, following tariff reductions.

"Is the senator aware," asked Senator Townsend, "of any condition existing which will make possible this proposed concern on the part of the government, as indicated by the secretary of commerce."

"Remarks of the secretary relating to investigations of manufacturers," replied Senator Simmons, "have grown out of threats constantly made by the protected interests, tha they would reduce wages unless they are permitted to retain the excessive tariff rates."

"Can the senator give any specific cases where such threats have been made?" Senator Townsend continued. "I can refer the senator to the hearings of the ways and means committee, where statements were repeatedly made by manufacturers that if duties were reduced, they would be forced to and would cut wages. I would refer him to the briefs filed with the finance committee, which are full of such statements.

"Does the senator construe as a threat he statement of a manufacturer that certain changes would force him to cut expenses," asked the Michigan senator.

Tart Reply by Simmons.

"The senator may construe it as he sees fit," Senator Simmons concluded. "Call it a threat or a statement, but the secretary of commerce had reference to these constant warnings by representatives of the protested industries, that they would not suffer in their own pockets from tariff reductions, but would shoulder the loss upon their employees."

Prolonged discussion centered upon an effort begun by Senator Penrose to have the names of manufacturers who appear before the senate finance subcommittee submitted for the benefit of the minority. He accepted an amendment by Senator Smith, of Georgia, for submission of names of manufacturers who call upon minority members of the committee and another by Senator Reed for making public a record of manufacturers who appealed to the finance committee when the Dingley and Payne-Aldrich bills were under consideration.

The Penrose motion, with amendments, was about to pass when Senator Lipplit proposed another, which would require immediate publication of all briefs filed with the finance committee. Thereupon Senator Simmons moved that the whole matter be referred to the finance committee, and the motion was carried, 43 to 38.

Senator Newlands addressed the senate at length on his tariff program proposed at the opening of the extra session, which would provide for a gradual reduction of the tariff, and for an investigation into the wisdom of creating a tariff advisory commission.

"I hope that this opportunity—the first the democratic party has had in many years—of basing action upon intelligent information instead of mere juggling adjustments between industries and sections, will not be lost," he said.

Cotton Knit Goods Men Protest.

Representatives of cotton knit goods manufacturers appeared before Senator Johnson's subcommittee today, protesting against the rate of 30 per cent ad valorem proposed on their wares in the Underwood bill. They maintained that this rate was not protective, and that it would let in goods of foreign manufacture.

"That's what we are looking for," said Senator Hughes. "The government will get some revenue and the people will get lower prices."

Senator Stone's subcommittee was engaged in consideration of the metal schedule. Though Senator Stone denied reports that the committee had made general reductions from the Underwood rates, some items have been reduced. One of these is said to be structural steel, on which the bill as it passed the house placed 12 per cent.

Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, has introduced an amendment to put aluminum on the free list. This is in keeping with his proposal to put all products of monopolies on the free list.

Senator Reed severely criticised the republicans for having in the employ of the finance committee during consideration of tariff bills men who were interested in the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, and he read from letters of S. N. D. North, who was secretary of the National Woolen Manufacturers' association, who admitted serving as a clerk to the finance subcommittee when tariff bills were up.

There Will Be No Jokers.

"When the democrats get through with this bill," said Senator Reed, "it may contain some mistakes, but it will contain no jokers by paid employees of the woolen trust or other manufacturing interests."

W. D. Hines, chairman of the executive committee, and counsel of the Santo Fe railroad, and representing twenty other lines, complained today to Senator Williams, chairman of the subcommittee considering the income tax, that a subsection of the provision would result in taxing holding corporations twice, both on the income of a subsidiary and that of a holding company. eH also maintained that interest on all bonded indebtedness should be exempt.

LANDSLIDE HITS TRAIN; SIX PERSONS ARE KILLED

The Train Was Swept Down Mountain Side by an Avalanche.

Hinton, W. Va., May 20.—Six persons are believed to have been killed and a number injured tonight, when a Chesapeake and Ohio train was swept down a steep mountain side by a landslide.

The train, composed of an engine, three freight cars and a caboose, the latter carrying passengers, had been stopped between Sewell and Landisburg, so that debris deposited by a cloudburst early in the day might be cleared away. While this work was in progress another slide occurred, and the train was thrown from the tracks down 300 feet of the mountain side.

Among the dead are James Walker, of Hinton, a traveling salesman, and Mrs. Amick, of Landisburg. A young girl is known to have been killed. Three other passengers, all men, known to have been aboard the caboose, have not been seen since the accident, and are believed to be dead under the wreckage.

The train left Sewell at 6 o'clock and encountered a number of small landslides along the right-of-way. Several times it was necessary to clear away debris before proceeding.

The slide that engulfed the train and sent it rolling down the mountainside in a tumbling mass of rock, earth, steel and timber, came without warning. While the work was working to clear the track there was a terrific roar, and before any one could save themselves the crash came.

Advertising drives the wheels of trade

"Advertising may be all right for some stores, but I don't think it will do mine any good. I'm too far down town—can't get the crowds here."

Is this really true?

Remember that old truism—"If a man make a better mousetrap than his neighbor the world will make a beaten path to his door though he live in the woods—if he tells the world."

Location has something to do with a store's success. But—

If a man have an attractive store, right goods and right prices and his service is up to the mark AND IF HE ADVERTISE THESE FACTS people will come and buy, even though he be a block or two out of the way.

After all, it is the personality of the man back of the store that makes or mars it. Witness the truth of this in the remark so often heard, "Yes, I know it's a bit out of the way, but they are so nice, they treat me so well and really their goods are all one could desire."

Wouldn't you bette. give advertising a chance at that down-the-street store of yours? The Constitution's readers don't mind the extra block or two—

CONSPIRACY CHARGED TO DISCREDIT LABOR

Collins, on Trial With President Wood, Tells of "Planting" Dynamite.

Boston, May 20.—An attempt to prove that representatives of capital entered into a conspiracy to discredit organized labor was made in the superior court today, where President William J. Wood, of the International Wooden company; Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, are on trial. The defendants are charged specifically with conspiracy to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence during the textile strike of 1912.

Collins testified as a witness for the prosecution and discussed a part of the alleged plot, though insisting that he was unaware at the time that he was handling dynamite. He admitted he did not expect to go to jail for his sentence if he told the truth on the stand.

Collins told of distributing dynamite at different buildings occupied by strikers, but made only a casual reference to Mr. Wood and did not mention Mr. Atteaux's name. He said that at the request of John J. Breen, who was a member of the Lawrence school board at the time, he had given a package of dynamite from Boston to Lawrence and at Breen's direction distributed smaller packages of explosive at various places where the strikers congregated. Breen has been convicted and fined for "planting" the dynamite.

The conference to Mr. Wood came when the witness was telling of a conversation between Breen and himself when the other accused told him he would be the next mayor of Lawrence and that a "million was back" of him. Collins said that he asked Breen what he meant, and the latter replied with the query: "Don't you know President Wood, of the American Woolen company?" Collins said he did not and Breen told him, he said, that he would know the joke later.

Henry F. Hurlbut, of counsel for Mr. Wood, declined to cross-examine Collins, on the ground that his testimony had not incriminated Wood.

Inspector William J. Mooney, of the Boston police department, and Police Inspector Charles R. Vose, of Lawrence, testified to the discovery of dynamite in places to which they had been directed by Breen. The trial will be continued tomorrow.

DR. ATKINSON IS HOST TO M'CORMICK ALUMNI

Rev. George H. Atkinson, president of Albemarle Normal and Industrial institute, of Albemarle, N. C., was host at a banquet given last night to the alumni of that institution, now in Emory library, and a number of other friends.

Among those who responded to toasts were Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, of Jacksonville, Fla. Donations have added so widely the cause of Christian education both in the north and in the south, and Dr. Walter W. Moore, president of Union Theological seminary, at Richmond, Va.

WOODCHOPPERS GUILTY OF MENACING WILSON

Newark, N. J., May 20.—Seeley Davenport and Jacob Dunn, mountain woodchoppers of Wharton, N. J., were convicted by a jury today of the charge of sending threatening letters to Woodrow Wilson while he was president-elect. In the case of Davenport the jury recommended mercy. The communications mailed to Mr. Wilson were received by his secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, in May and November of last year, and demanded money in sums of $1,000 and $5,000 under a penalty of death.

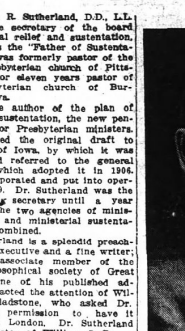
"FATHER OF SUSTENTATION" ATTENDS GENERAL ASSEMBLY



REV. JOHN R. SUTHERLAND.

Rev. John R. Sutherland, D.D., LL.D., associate secretary of the board of ministerial relief and sustentation, is known as the "Father of Sustentation." He was formerly pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, of Pittsburg, and for eleven years pastor of First Presbyterian church of Burlington, Iowa.

He is the author of the plan of ministerial sustentation, the new pension plan for Presbyterian ministers. He submitted the original draft to the synod of Iowa, by which it was adopted and referred to the general assembly, which adopted it in 1906. It was incorporated and put into operation in 1909. Dr. Sutherland was the corresponding secretary until a year ago, when the two agencies of ministerial relief and ministerial sustentation were combined.

Dr. Sutherland is a splendid preacher, a good executive and a fine writer; he is an associate member of the Royal Philosophical society of Great Britian. One of his published addresses attracted the attention of William E. Gladstone, who asked Dr. Sutherland's permission to have it reprinted in London. Dr. Sutherland was the pastor of William J. Bryan, secretary of state, when Mr. Bryan was a young lawyer, and they have ever since been most intimate friends. Dr. Sutherland visited Secretary Bryan in Washington on his way to the general assembly.

UNRESTRICTED PROBE INTO THE SHOE TRUST

Boston Mass., May 20.—An unrestricted probe into the acts of the United Shoe Machinery company, the alleged shoe machinery "trust," will be allowed the government as a result of a ruling by Judge William L. Putnam at the opening of the suit to dissolve the company in the United States district court today. Attorney Choate, of counsel for the defense, requested the court to instruct the government to proof of a plan on the part of the defendants to monopolize the shoe machinery business of the country, or such a plan never existed. He said the government would lose its case, as it is alleged that all the acts complained of were done in pursuance of a plan of monopoly.

"It is pretty dangerous for the court to restrict counsel in a case of this character," said Judge Putnam, who is presiding with Judge Frederick Dodge and Judge Arthur L. Brown. "It is dangerous for me to intimate anything just now," he added, "but I would suggest that instead of taking up the time of the court, counsel argue on facts so far as they relate to acts of the companies organized in relation to the shoe machinery business."

Of the eleven defendant companies nine were organized as incidental to the shoe machinery business conducted by the United Shoe Machinery company and its holding company, the United Shoe Machinery company. Through these eleven companies the twenty-three individual defendants acuired from the date of the formation of the United Shoe Machinery company in 1899 to the time the dissolution suit was brought in 1911 the business of fifty-five individual partnerships to corporations which the government charges formerly were in competition with the defendants.

"By acquiring the business of these constituent companies the United Companies the United Shoe Machinery company," said William S. Gregg, special assistant to Attorney-General McReynolds, "secured control of 98 per cent of the shoe machinery business which relates to the fastening of soles to the uppers of shoes." The government, Attorney Gregg said, makes no objection to the company leasing its entire product, but it claims that the terms of these leases compel the shoe manufacturers to use all or none of the machines grouped together by the company. Gregg added that the government contended that the defendants violated the Sherman anti-trust act, first, by the organization of the United Shoe Machinery company; second, by the so-called "tying" clause in the leases; third, by the acquisition of the fifty-five competing companies; fourth, by a scheme to monopolize the United Shoe Machinery corporation.

The government in consequence asked among other things that the court adjudge the United Shoe Machinery corporation and the United Shoe Machinery company, of New Jersey, each a combination in restraint of trade, and order that each of them be dissolved. Attorney Choate in opening the defense denied that the leases compelled manufacturers to use the company's machines exclusively if they used one of them. He explained that welting and stitching machines which attach the soles to the uppers of lasting machines are the principal machines in the shoe industry. A number of auxiliary machines, he explained, were furnished free of charge with the principal machines, and for that reason the company in the "tying" clauses of the leases limited the use of its auxiliary machines to the principal machines with which they are grouped. The system, Mr. Choate said, enabled the shoe manufacturers to start business with only small outlay of capital. As all the company's machines were covered by patents the restricted use of them, he said, was not only permissible, but customary.

MAY COTTON ADVANCED; OTHER OPTIONS LOWER

The Market Opened Steady and Closed Very Steady With May Higher.

New York, May 20.—The cotton market was less active today, and after a slight early advance eased off with the close very steady at an advance of 1 point on May, but generally 2 to 6 points lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points, on a renewal of yesterday's covering movement and continued buying by trade houses with foreign connections. Cables were not better than due, while the early weather news caused by very favorable weather conditions in the south, with further showers forecasted for the eastern belt, and the buying was not as active as it had been on Monday. Wall street and uptown interests seemed to be taking more cotton, but houses with southern connections were sellers, and prices soon sagged off 2 points from the best.

Trading became very quiet late in the morning, but offerings increased somewhat after the publication of the weekly weather report, which appeared to encourage a more optimistic view of the probable June condition report, and the active months sold off to a net loss of from 3 to 6 points during the afternoon.

Closing prices were 2 or 3 points up from the lowest on most positions, as a result of covering by shorts early or a continued scattering trade demand. Rumors that certain of the prominent New England mills would close next week referred only to the decision of the mills to close on Memorial day, and the buying Saturday may have stimulated some selling in connection with the favorable weather and crop news.

Private wires stated that cotton is putting on squares in southern Alabama and predicted blooms by the first of next month.

There was nothing in the news to indicate any material change in the ruling of southern spot markets, but several reports were received from the eastern belt claiming deficiencies in interior stocks as compared with last year. July was relatively steady during the day, as most of the fresh selling seems to be going into the later positions, owing to the reduction in the local stock and the small shipments in this direction from the south.

Cotton, spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.0; do. gulf, 12.25; sales, 136 bales.

a-Minimum temperatures are for 12-hour period ending at 8 a. m. this date. b-Received late, not included in average. c-Highest yesterday. ea-Lowest for 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. 75th meridian time.

NOTE—The average highest and lowest temperatures are made up at each center from the actual number of reports received, and the average precipitation from the number of stations reporting 0.10 inch or more. The "state of weather" is that prevailing at time of observation.

Remarks.

Rain is reported from all except Mobile district. Temperatures continue seasonably high over the belt.

C. F. von HERRMANN,
Section Director Weather Bureau.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 20.—Realtin sentiment was on the increase in the cotton market today, but the above side was unable to bring about much of a decline. Several bears took profits on spurts of selling come from ring traders, who based their trading on reports of rain over the cotton region and the rise in temperatures, but the offerings were fairly well taken. Buying was quiet and fluctuations narrow. Later the market was oversold and would react of its own accord without aggressive support from the bull side. Much was made of reports that the crop is late over a large part of the belt and that weekly weather reports were unfavorable, chiefly because of their remarks regarding roughby conditions in the belt. Rains were encouraged, however, by the rains since the reports were made up, the forecast of more showers to come and the tendency of the weather to warm up.

The opening was steady, unchanged to 5 points up, compared with yesterday's close. Cables were about as due and the weather map was favorable. Around the call, the market stood 2 to 6 points up, net. This was the limit of the day. Offerings from the start were light, especially after the detailed weather reports were posted, showing the average maximum temperature of 88 for the belt yesterday, and around noon prices were 5 to 7 points under yesterday's final figure. This was the low of the day. In the afternoon, shorts tried to scalp their profits and the market closed firm at a net decline of 1 to 4 points.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, May 20.—The market today has remained within narrow limits, owing to a small volume of business. Shorts having covered rather freely during the past few days, the demand was not so urgent and, therefore, selling orders caused some decline in prices, after the overnight buying had been sacrified. Further rains fell throughout the cotton belt, with more forecasted in the next twenty-four hours, which would be very beneficial to the crop, if followed by clearing weather.

London Stock Market.

London, May 20.—With the exceptions of a few issues, dealings on the settlement of labor trouble and a slightly recovery in copper shares, the stock market was dull and easy today. Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 20.—A somewhat lower market from the failure of Liverpool to follow the advance of yesterday and, if possible, an increase in the bearish feeling amongst the local traders, is the story of the day. The weekly weather report was as good as expected. Much is being said in the outcome of the July position here. As the holdings are principally for European account, no one can know whether they will receive the cotton and ship it, as they did in May or not. If they should do so, there will be a minus stock of cotton here, as they are more than the deliverable cotton. Crop reports are good where showers have fallen during the past few days.

Wool.

Boston, May 20.—More interest is being shown in the domestic wool by both manufacturers and dealers, although the increase in business is small. New territory wools are beginning to arrive but the demand is light. All grades show lower values. Old territory stocks move slowly. A fair trade is reported in western pulled wool, but the demand for Texas and California products is lacking. The leading domestic values include:

Wisconsin and Missouri fleece: Three-eighths blood, 24@25; quarter-blood, 24@25.

Kentucky and similar: Half blood unwashed, 24; three-eighths blood, unwashed, 25.

Scoured basis—Texas fine 12 months, 73@75; fine six to eight months, 67@68; fine fall, 45@46.

Sugar and Molasses.

New York, May 20.—Raw sugar steady; Muscovado, 2.77@2.80, centrifugal, 3.27@3.30, molasses, 2.52@2.55. Refined steady. Molasses steady.

RAINS IN NORTHWEST CAUSED WHEAT TO DROP

Prices at the Close Were One-Quarter to One-Half of a Cent Off.

Chicago, May 20.—Abundance of moisture in the Dakotas and Minnesota took the snap out of buying today in the wheat pit. Although steady at the close, the market was 1-4@3-8 to 7-8 cents under last night. Latest trading left corn varying from 1-4 oft to a sixteenth advance; oats down 3-8 to 1-2, and provisions strung out from 10 cents decline to a gain of a shade. Selling of wheat was of an influential kind and developed considerable volume on all the swells. The weak backward and suffering from dryness and cold, failed to attract much notice, fine conditions on this side of the boundary proving more impressive. Primary receipts of wheat today were 479,000 bushels; a year ago 360,000 bushels. Export clearances of wheat and flour equalled 325,000.

Notwithstanding heavy offerings from the country, corn was upheld by fowa reports of delayed planting, and probable failures of shipments. Actual receipts here were scanty.

Oats weakened in view of the more general rains.

In provisions, longs realized on a moderate advance. The result was an easy feeling at the close.

LOW BIDS FOR BONDS AFFECTED THE STOCKS

New York's New Issue of Bonds Fell Below the Price That Was Expected.

New York, May 20.—After slowly gathering strength during the greater part of today's market, stocks received a setback late in the session, when bids were opened for New York city's $45,000,000 issue of 4½ per cent bonds. The bids fell considerably below the usual estimates. The view commonly held is that the probable issue price of the bonds was indicated by the trading in the bonds "when issued," which has been in progress for a week. The bonds sold as high at 100 3-4 and today there were sales at 100 1-2 before the bids were opened. When it became known that the bids of some of the largest financial institutions were being received at par or slightly above, the bonds sold off to 100 3-16, and the outstanding city issues also weakened.

The city's bond offering had been looked forward to with unusual interest, in the hope that the result might indicate the revival of an investment demand. Some encouragement was derived from the fact that more individual bids were received than on the occasion of any other city bond issue since 1908, but the street professed disappointment that the comparatively high rate of interest did not result in higher bids. The depression of sentiment, as a result, was registered in a reaction in the stock market, which cancelled a large part of the gains made earlier in the day.

Prices of stocks moved irregularly at the outset, but the undertone

HENRY M. FLAGLER GOES INTO BEYOND

Oil, Railway and Hotel Magnate Dies in Florida—Unconscious for Days—He Built Oversea Railroad.

West Palm Beach, Fla., May 20.—Henry M. Flagler, the southern railroad magnate and hotel man, who has been ill here for the last several weeks, died at 10:20 this morning. He had been deaf, blind and out of his mind for three weeks. Death came quietly and without pain. He was 83 years old. Some months ago the octogenarian sustained a fall from steps in his home, and because of his advanced age his recovery had not been anticipated.

Mrs. Flagler and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flagler were with him at the time of his death, as were officials of the Florida East Coast railway.

The body of Mr. Flagler will lie in state at the cottage where he died until Wednesday afternoon, and, after brief services, will be conveyed by special train to St. Augustine, where final funeral ceremonies will take place on Friday.

Rev. George Morgan, his pastor, will conduct the funeral services at St. Augustine, where the body will be buried in the lagler mausoleum in the yard of the Flagler memorial church, which he gave to the Presbyterians of that city.

In this city all business houses were closed during the afternoon, and flags were flying at half-mast in respect to his memory. The funeral Friday will be attended by hundreds of prominent men from various sections of the United States, and from all along the east coast of this state, which was developed by Mr. Flagler.

Sketch of Flagler.

Henry M. Flagler was born at Canandaigua, N. Y., in 1830. Little is known of his early life, except that he was clerk in a country grocery in Orleans county, Michigan, while yet in his teens. Later he removed to Saginaw, Mich., where he engaged in the manufacture of salt.

Becoming interested in the possibilities of the petroleum industry he removed to Cleveland, Ohio, where he organized the company of Rockefeller, Andrews & Flagler, engaging in the refining of oil. The Standard Oil company was the outgrowth of this venture, and Mr. Flagler has constantly remained actively connected with the management of the great corporation since its inception.

In 1885 Mr. Flagler paid his first visit to Florida, and became impressed with the business possibilities presented there by the railroad field, in connection with the development of winter resorts.

Entering actively into the work of turning Florida into one vast winter resort, Mr. Flagler built the Florida East Coast railroad and erected the Ponce de Leon and Alcazar hotels at a cost of $3,000,000.

His greatest achievement, however, was the extension of his railroad from Miami to Key West. For many years his plan was ridiculed as impracticable, and was called "Flagler's folly." The opening of this "over-sea" line is listed as one of the engineering triumphs of the age.

Mr. Flagler was vice president and director of the Standard Oil company, President of the Florida East Coast railway and Jacksonville Terminal company; director of the Western Union Telegraph company, Morton Trust company and other corporations.

F. M. STEWART HURT IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

F. M. Stewart, of 261 West Peachtree street, had a narrow escape from death in a runaway accident on the Marietta street road yesterday afternoon. Fortunately he suffered only slight contusions, and is expected to be out again in a few days. His wounds were dressed by Dr. F. M.

Charles L. Kyle, aged 32, formerly of the livery stable business, and is well known.

The Northern Baptists.

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—The Northern Baptist convention, representing 2,500,000 members of that denomination in this country, will convene here tomorrow to remain in session about eight days. More than 2,000 delegates will attend the convention, it is said.

"LUMBER JACK" HIGGINS WILL ADDRESS REVIVAL

Noon Meetings at Grand Big Success—Evangelist Biederwolf Speaking Daily.

"Lumber-Jack" Higgins, the remarkable "sky pilot" speaker who is in Atlanta as a delegate to the Northern Presbyterian assembly, will make an address Wednesday at the noon evangelistic meeting at the Grand Opera house.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, who has had splendid success in the two meetings already held this week, will also speak, continuing the series till the close of the Presbyterian assemblies on Friday.

The meetings, starting at 12:15 o'clock sharp, and continuing till 1 o'clock, have attracted much interest, among the men especially, and a large attendance has been at the Grand each day. Besides scores of the visiting Presbyterians, there have been hundreds of Atlanta people drawn to the revival services to hear Dr. Biederwolf, who is famous over the country as an evangelist.

The National Male Quartet also sings each day at the services. At the close of the assembly, the quartet plans to leave on the Panama excursion, together with Dr. Biederwolf, and in the city of Colon, in the canal zone, an arduous five days' evangelistic series will be held, which will probably attract wide attention in Panama.

BEATEN IN FIGHT, WALTON APPEALS

witnesses, and some of them parties in that case, were sitting on a bench in the corridor. Burton Smith, attorney on the other side of the case, came out and began to talk to Mrs. Cora B. Cash, one of the plaintiffs in the case. This had been the second time during the morning that he had come and spoken to her. He knew that these people were witnesses for the plaintiffs, and were plaintiffs in the case.

His remarks were objectionable and Mrs. M. T. Byrd, the sister of C. W. Walton, came up and objected to such talk, she being a first cousin of Mrs. Cash and Mr. Walton, the brother of Mrs. Cora B. Cash, said to these women: "Come on around here and hit on the other side." They had gone there with Mr. Walton in the morning, and Mr. Burton Smith then said: "What have you got to do with it?" (addressing Mr. Walton). Walton replied: "These are my women people." Then, while Walton was smoking, Burton Smith drew up his fist and hit Walton on the left jaw, knocking him down to the floor. Walton recovered and caught Burton Smith by the collar and throat. A man by the name of John C. Cox and Mrs. M. B. Crawford, the defendant in that suit, got hold of Walton, while Burton Smith hit Walton in the face.

"At this time Mr. W. H. Byrd came out of the jury room and ran up between Burton Smith and Walton to try to part them, and Burton Smith turned on Byrd and hit him two or three severe blows, one over each eye and knocking him almost down. At this time, two or three men ran and got hold of Burton Smith, and as Byrd was getting up, Reuben R. Arnold came running out of the court room and kicked Byrd three or four blows while Byrd was getting up, and then people interceded and stopped the difficulty. Walton is a very small man, weighs 132 pounds. Mr. Byrd weighs about 160 or 165 pounds. Burton Smith weighs about 240 pounds or more.

"We also want to say, representing the heirs of J. B. Crawford and of Nancy E. Crawford, deceased, that we will not be imposed upon, and that we are trying to assert our rights in court against the iniquitous attempts on the part of certain people to try to gobble up these two estates and give it to Mrs. M. B. Crawford, who is no more entitled to it than the man in the moon. We have already sworn out warrants against Burton Smith, Reuben R. Arnold and J. C. Cox, and we shall proceed against them as provided by law, for contempt of court and for interfering with parties and witnesses who are attending court, and the case will be prosecuted to the extreme limit of the law.

"This is a true statement and will be proven by a large number of witnesses. We may not be lawyers of renown and great influential citizens, but we have our rights in this city and we have our friends.

"C. W. WALTON,
"W. H. BYRD."

He Makes the Music a Go At the Presbyterian Meetings

Dr. Charles Atkinson, of Seattle, Wash. The great director of music, whose work has helped to make union mass meetings a success.

"Sing it!"

That's his favorite expression when leading the vast crowds which are filling the Auditorium each evening of the Presbyterian assemblies. He's Dr. Ralph Atkinson, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Seattle, Wash., and a man who has no equal as a director of music for great congregations in the country, bar none.

Dr. Atkinson for years traveled with Moody, and Torrey, and later with Chapman, on their great evangelistic tours of the world. And from those days he brings to Atlanta a wealth of experience which is making a success of the musical program of the evening meetings.

There is a personal magnetism about him that the crowd can't withstand. Consequently, a couple of minutes after he has mounted his platform, he has the audience of six thousand people in the best of humor, and singing as though at an old-fashioned Georgia camp-meeting.

"Sing it," he cries, and lifting his arms, he catches the eye of every one in the auditorium. "Sing it out, like you meant it. Don't be afraid of me. And they do sing.

The picture above is a characteristic pose, caught just as the words "sing it," are being uttered.

Dr. Atkinson was brought especially to Atlanta by the musical committee of the assemblies to take charge of the musical end of things, and the success which he has made of it, and his "pick-up" choir at the Auditorium shows that they did not err.

Personally, he is one of the most delightful men to meet in the entire convention. If you go to the Auditorium tonight, as you will, watch him, and "sing it!"

which followed and the prayer of Moderator Stone were both characterized by the zeal and earnestness which are necessary to the most soulful worship. But those who were near enough to hear of the original question listened in vain for the volceful praise which never came from that timid and shrinking elder fresh from the hills of the people who had hoped during the recent months that the Union seminary matter would be settled forever and a day by the general assembly of 1913.

In opening the discussion of the seminary matter President Brown made it clear and distinct that the general assembly had no business in discussing the doctrinal and legal question relating to the institution of which he is the head. "For," said he, "we are here at your invitation to consider the matter of closer relationship, and what do we find but that we are in the situation of the guests you would invite to your homes to share your hospitality whom you met with a club."

Denunciatory Speeches.

The most denunciatory of the speeches against Union Theological seminary were made by the Rev. Dr. McKibben, president of Lane Theological seminary at Cincinnati, Ohio; the Rev. F. C. Monfort, D.D., and the Rev. Dr. Janiver, of Philadelphia.

Speaking in favor of the seminary were the Rev. Wilton Merle-Smith, D.D., pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, New York city, who claimed that he had been a member of the board of directors of that institution for many years and that he considered himself one of the extremest in his conservatism on the board. The speaker said that the had not in all these years heard an expression of faith and doctrine in his association with the seminary which he would claim to be any but the most orthodox.

Charges Found Baseless.

The matter which came next in point of importance to that of the Union theological seminary discussion was the report of the executive commission which dealt with certain charges which had been made that the board of home missions had exceeded its authority in appointing its four field secretaries to have supervision of the mission work being done throughout the church, and that the board had been extravagant in its administrative expenditures.

The committee found that both of these charges were without foundation in fact and that the board deserved only the highest praise for the broad statesmanlike business way it had under the task of supplying the destitute peoples and remote sections of the country with the ministry of the church.

The executive commission did report however, that certain changes should be made as early as possible in the policy of the board relating to certain of its departments which have been established during the recent past. Among these was the bureau of the church and country life which has been in the supervision of the Rev. Warren H. Wilson, and which has busied itself with the task of interesting both the ministry and the people of the countryside in the recently revealed possibilities of the rural church.

Dissatisfaction Evident.

The hastiness with which Moderator Stone put the motion to adopt the commission's report regarding its findings in the home missionary matter caused considerable dissatisfaction throughout the ranks of the commissioners, and was freely predicted last night that a motion to reconsider would be made at the opening of the assembly today, when the great number of country commissioners are expected to cause the assembly to withdraw its recommendations that the bureau of the church and country life be discontinued.

The report stated that the home board has at present 1,637 employees, 75 pastor-evangelists, 3 synodical secretaries and evangelists, 4 field secretaries and that the $180,400 were not considered in the administrative budget since the duties of these representatives of the board are serving as bearers of the church's message to the people.

The Labor temple on the lower east side of New York city, which has been supported by the board, and for which the board has been criticised, cost the church for its maintenance during the year which ended March 31 of this year, $17,457.65; and the committee reported that the assembly instruct the board to transfer this institution to the care and direction of the Presbytery of New York.

Hot Battle Today.

Another hot fight is expected on the floor of the Northern Presbyterian general assembly today, when the standing committee on board of Sabbath school and publication reports. It is predicted by those who are in a position to know that the system of graded lessons used in many churches, and which has been condemned most vigorously throughout the church, will be recommended to be used another year. This committee will also likely report: 1, the largest contributions made to this cause during the year ever made in its history; 2, recommending the appointment of a council of religious education in all churches, in order to an improvement of the teachings, methods and matter; 3, that the combined graded lesson system be continued and made to conform to evangelical standards; 4, that an advisory committee be appointed by the board for purposes of conference and correspondence; 5, that the board create a department of education, which will have the task of bringing the work done by the board up to the most approved methods of modern education.

Another matter which will likely come before the assembly today is a communicated which Stated Clerk Roberts has addressed to the executive commission, and which that body in turn will present to the assembly regarding the continuance of the office of assistant stated clerk, now occupied by the Rev. James M. Hubbert, D. D., about whom it has been said: "He has a voice, clear, ringing strong with an enunciation that is perfect, and he can be heard in every fartherest point of the great meeting hall."

The board of home missions will report today that it now has 1,637 employees under their direction; seventy-five of these are pastor-evangelists; eight are synodical secretaries and evangelists, and four field secretaries. The salary of these eighty-three people amounts to $130,000.

College Board's Report.

The board's annual report was presented to the assembly by the standing committee by its chairman, the Rev. Griffin W. Bull, D. D., formerly pastor of the West End church of this city. The recommendations of the board, including the appointment of Associate Secretary James E. Clarke, D. D., were approved by the assembly.

The last item of yesterday's session was the hearing of the annual report of the assembly's temperance, which calls for petition from the assembly to President Woodrow Wilson urging him and his administration to refuse to grant liquor licenses which contemplate the selling of whisky in dry territory, the joining with other churches in the call for a national conference on the liquor problems which will aim at the discontinuance of liquor manufacture. The committee also urged that the Christian church urge the federal government to take the same stand toward whisky which China has taken toward opium.

GEORGIA GIRL PLEASES WHITE HOUSE GUESTS

Washington, May 20.—(Special.)—Miss Louise A. Williams, a gifted young Georgia girl, delighted the guests at a white house entertainment last night, in honor of the girl students from Goucher college, by her southern songs and folk lore stories.

The president and his family having spent much of their lives in the south, were greatly pleased with the sympathetic treatment of the stories and legends. The young interpreter of southern poetry and folk lore readily moved her audience to laughter and to tears.

Although born in Augusta, the daughter of the late A. B. Williams, a member of General Cobb's cavalry legion, Miss Williams has lived recently in Druid Hills, Atlanta. Her work has received much favorable comment in the northern press.

HOME FOR BLIND GIRL SOUGHT BY CHARITIES

J. C. Logan, secretary of the Associated Charities, has appealed to The Constitution to assist him in his search for a home for a 2-year-old girl, totally blind, who has been deserted by her father, and whose mother is in the Alms house. Until she is 7 years old, she will not be allowed to enter the Georgia State asylum for the blind.

The child is unusually bright, and Mr. Logan says could be developed wonderfully, if she had the proper education. Three hundred dollars a year is the sum necessary to send her to an institution where she would receive the proper treatment.

The Associated Charities are responsible for the worthiness of the girl's case. She was born blind, and it absolutely incurable, but would be able to make her own way in the world if she were given the proper training.
